C&NW Proposes 7% Fare Increase

The Chicago and North Western Transportation Co. (C&NW) announced yesterday a proposed 7 per cent increase for commuter fares effective Jan. 1 of next year.

According to Larry Provo, president of the railway company, the C&NW is finding it increasingly difficult to maintain a high standard of commuter service in the face of rising costs and increased competition.

The proposal will be filed today before the Illinois Commerce Commission in Springfield.

For commuters buying a monthly ticket for rides between Des Plaines and Chicago, the fare increase would mean a boost from the present $31.70 to $33.90. The cost for Mount Prospect commuters on a monthly basis would amount to $37.20 compared with the present $34.80; Arlington Heights fares would rise to $38.70 from $36.20; and Palatine fares to $41.70 from $39. Round-trip tickets would increase, respectively, from $2.40 to$2.60 in Des Plaines; $2.60 to $2.80 in Mount Prospect; $2.80 to $3 in Arlington Heights; and $3 to $3.20 in Palatine.

A NEW CHARGE system, billed by the C&NW as the first of its kind in the U.S., is also planned as a cost-saving measure. The system would go into effect Feb. 1, 1973, if approved by the ICC. The elimination of ticket sales at 14 suburban stations will reduce the railway's costs by $185,000. The Cumberland station is among those affected by this plan, in addition to Cary, Woodstock and McHenry.

According to the charge card plan, any customer could apply for a C&NW charge card. Riders will be able to purchase tickets using their charge card, through the mail.

Provo said other alternatives considered by the railway include curtailment of early morning and late night service, and the consolidation of certain rush hour trains. For the time being, he said, these proposals will not be implemented.

A 5¼ PER CENT fare hike was effected Aug. 1 of this year by the C&NW on its commuter service. The railway asked early this year for a 7 per cent fare increase, effective April 1, 1972. However, the ICC set aside and granted the smaller fare increase late in July.

A spokesman for the C&NW said the firm would not have had to seek a fare increase at this time if the full fare increase had been granted earlier this year. Additional labor contracts set for negotiation in 1973 pose the possibility of another fare increase request next year, he said.

City Ward To Include 6 Precincts?

Des Plaines' wards are changing in the current reapportionment.

For the first time, a city ward may include as many as six precincts, totals reported by City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach indicated yesterday.

Des Plaines' current 8th Ward, largest in the city with about 20 per cent of the population, has only four precincts. The seven other current wards are split into three precincts.

Preliminary totals indicate that about half the population in seven wards is registered to vote.

The city council approved a ward remap proposal Nov. 7 that divided the city into eight wards with populations of about 7,155 persons each.

Mrs. Rohrbach's new totals show 3,559 voters in the proposed 1st Ward; 4,290 in the 3rd Ward; 3,637 in the 4th Ward; 2,841 in the 5th Ward; 3,840 in the 7th Ward; 3,567 in the 8th Ward and 3,639 in the 6th Ward.

COURT GUIDELINES set a maximum precinct population of 800 voters, forcing division of the proposed 3rd Ward into six precincts and breakdown of six other wards into five. Only the 5th Ward will retain four precincts.

Voter totals in the 2nd Ward are incomplete.

Des Plaines "busy bee" ward remappers are expected to finish division of the city by early January. City council's delay since last spring in approving the remap forced Mrs. Rohrbach to hire the temporary team to prepare registration for the city April 1973 election.

Jan. 18 is the firs day for candidates to file nominating petitions.

"These people need to know the number of signatures they need. They'll want two, three or four weeks to circulate the petitions," said Mrs. Rohrbach, who probably will be a candidate for re-election.

"I hope to have the ordinance ready by the first meeting in January," Mrs. Rohrbach said yesterday. "They may have to approve it all at once" — bypassing the usual procedure of placing a proposed ordinance on first reading at one meeting and passing it at a following meeting.

ELEVEN HOUSEWIVES, earning $2.50 an hour under direction of Mrs. Rohrbach, are completing the city's remap in a Miner Street storefront office.

Working on portable tables with adding machines and voter registration cards, the team is picking up where the council left off Nov. 7.

First task was development of a master street key which lists street numbers in each proposed precinct. Then, the women match voter addresses to precincts boundaries to arrive at precinct population totals.

The workers, who are assigned individually to each ward with a pair for the "difficult" 8th and 4th Wards, started the breakdown with four proposed precincts per ward. But, the totals have required new precinct boundaries to fall under the 800 maximum.

After the precincts are determined, the voter registration cards will be alphabetized and the 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. workers will count the number of residents who voted in the last election. The total determines the number of signatures required on a candidate petition.

The final list will be sent to the city data processing department for key punching and computer preparation.

The last step in the process is writing of an ordinance to define the new boundaries in legal terms. Passage of the yet-to-be-written ordinance is necessary to make the work legal.

Cost of the remap will be thousands of dollars because of council delays, Mrs. Rohrbach has said.

The remap workers include two League of Women Voters officials — president Mrs. Sue D'Hondt and first vice president Charolette Storer — a former Rohrbach campaign worker who now lives in Mount Prospect and other housewives seeking Christmas money and a better understanding of election preparation.

Thanksgiving Comes To Life For Students At Cumberland

by KATHERINE BOYCE

The spirit of Thanksgiving is very real to children at Cumberland Elementary School in Des Plaines.

To them it means helping one another, working together and appreciating all that they have.

As a lesson in working together, 24 educable handicapped children aged 5 to 10 planned and prepared a complete Thanksgiving dinner at Cumberland School yesterday.

Because these children are "slow learners," they learn best through experience, said teacher Paula Nofftz. Abstract ideas are difficult for them to grasp, she said, so it is easier to learn about the spirit of Thanksgiving by actually pretending to be Pilgrims or Indians.

The dinner was a joint project between two classes of handicapped children, one taught by Miss Nofftz and the other taught by Barbara Trivisonno. The menu included turkey, dressing, cranberry salad, cookies, Indian cornbread and homemade butter.

ALL THE CHILDREN who wanted to be Indians made headbands and strung beads. The Pilgrims made stiff white collars and cuffs. They learned to prepare some of the food, set the table and most important, they get to work together — just like the Indians and the Pilgrims.

The children learned some social studies, they learned to get along with one another, and they learned some practical skills such as cooking and cleaning, said Miss Nofftz.

In the classroom, educable handicapped children work at their own level of ability and are given as much individual attention as possible, said Miss Nofftz. They study almost all of the material that is presented in the regular classroom, but they earn it at their own speed. Filmstrips, stories, and acting are often used as teaching methods for handicapped children, she said.

PILGRIMS AND INDIANS at Cumberland Elementary School in Des Plaines prepared a Thanksgiving dinner yesterday complete with turkey and dressing. The children, educable handicapped students at Des Plaines Elementary School Dist 62, learned how the Indians and Pilgrims worked together by reliving the first Thanksgiving 350 years ago.

In Unincorporated Areas

Area Police Will Patrol

Within the next few weeks, Cook County Sheriff's Police will begin asking suburban police departments throughout Cook County to take over patrols of unincorporated county areas.

The switchover is part of a larger plan under which the county sheriff's police would concentrate on investigative work.

Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod this week that his department has adopted the recommendations of a study made earlier this year by Cresap, McCormick and Paget, Inc., which call for County police to stop patrolling unincorporated area. Instead, such patrol will be contracted with nearby municipal police departments and the Sheriff's police will concentrate on follow-up investigative work.

"We have taken steps to implement a plan that would eventually have them give up all investigative work in favor of on-street patrol.

But there is a question whether the local police departments want to cooperate in such a program," Elrod said. "We are set up for it."

DES PLAINES Police Chief Arthur Hintz told the Herald his department will need more information on the proposed switchover before he can make a decision.

He said any changes would be up to the city council because he has no jurisdiction over appropriating finances for the police department.

Hintz indicated the Des Plaines police department would not require the Cook County Sheriff's Police investigating services, as some smaller communities would.

"I think we have a pretty complete detective bureau and youth division capable of carrying on major investigations, as they have in past," he said.

"I could see it as an advantage to smaller towns on a reciprocal arrangement were the towns handled the patrol work and the county does the investigating work," Hintz said.

He said larger suburbs in the county such as Des Plaines, Skokie, Evanston and Arlington Heights "have developed good investigators and to my knowledge have good detective bureaus."

"THEY'D TAKE away a good deal of the (men's) dedication," Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood said. "Then we'd have just the routine stuff. I'd prefer we make our own investigations."

Mount Prospect Police Chief Bert Giddens said that while any decision to participate would have to be made by the village board, he personally "would disagree with it."

One of the largest unincorporated areas in the Northwest suburbs, Prospect Heights, is near both towns. Elrod said he would want one of the three surrounding communities (Wheeling being the third) to contract to patrol Prospect Heights.

But Calderwood said he'd want no part of such a contract and Giddens said it would be an increased burden as "I need more men now to cover Mount Prospect."

The study contends that the sheriff's police force is inefficient in providing patrol services and most suburban police departments are too small to provide effective criminal investigations, surveillance and undercover work.

ELROD SAID his men's task in patrolling is made difficult because the 150,000 residents in unincorporated areas live on 260 square miles out of the county's total 900 square miles.

"We're not going to force (the new program) on anyone," Elrod said. "We have done some restructuring already. Now we will try to show the local departments it will be cheaper and more efficient."

The sheriff's department has already been changed to include a northern and southern section. A western section may be added soon. Both patrol and investigative divisions have been consolidated.

He said some Illinois Law Enforcement Commission grants have been obtained to improve communications and to establish a suburban crime laboratory.

In addition to the savings gained by not having to duplicate expensive laboratory equipment, Elrod said the suburban departments would save money and time also because men would not get tied down with long investigations.

AFTER BEING CROWNED last year as Paddock Publications Junior Miss, Barbara Jean Gorgol of Des Plaines went on to be named Illinois Junior Miss and third runnerup in the national competition. Miss Gorgol and Carol Jernberg, Arlington Heights Junior Miss of 1971-72, will be at the pageant this Sunday to congratulate the two new winners.

Police Solve Burglaries; 2 Local Teens Arrested

Des Plaines police say they have solved 14 recent burglaries in the city and one in Elk Grove Village with the arrest of two Des Plaines youths apprehended Sunday night while burglarizing a local restaurant.

According to reports, police arrested Wesley J. Reece, 19, of 835 Pearson St. and Frank Baca, 19, of 285 Bel Air Ave. about 10:20 p.m. wile the pair was burglarizing Mandas Snack Shop, at 1457 Ellinwood St., Des Plaines.

Police said Detective Robert Ornberg was watching stores in the area of Lee and Ellinwood streets when he saw someone break into the restaurant.

ORNBERG reportedly radioed for assistance and Larry Zumbrock entered the rear door and apprehended Reece inside.

Police said Baca and another youth fled from the scene when police arrived.

Sgt Robert Sturlini, on patrol in the area, apprehended Reece inside.

Police said Baca and another youth fled from the scene when police arrived.

Sgt. Robert Sturlini, on patrol in the area, apprehended Baca about a block from the restaurant. Police said the third youth got away and they are still looking for him.

Police said $51.79 stolen from Mandas' was found in Reece's possession after his arrest.

Police said Reece admitted to taking part in 13 other burglaries that have plagued the downtown area for the last couple of months.

POLICE SAID Reece admitted to burglarizing the following firms since September; The Des Plaines Magazine and Cigar Store, 1513 Ellinwood St.; the Crestwood Snack Shop, 1118 Lee St.; Kirby Co., 1114 Lee St.; Des Plaines Lumber and Coal Co., 1000 Lee St., three different times; Lake-Cook Farm Supply, 997 Lee St. and Star Beauty Salon, 980 Center St., both two times; Spinney Run Farms, 978 Center St.; Custom Printing Service, 976 Center St., and the Golden Egger, 960 E. Rand Rd.

Lt. Lee Alfano said Reece also admitted to burglarizing an Elk Grove Village dry cleaning store.

Reece is being held in the Cook County Jail in lieu of an $11,000 bond on the burglary charges.

Baca was released on a $5,000 recognizance bond and the third suspect will also be held on a $5,000 bond when he is apprehended, police said.

In Unincorporated Areas

Area Police Will Patrol

Within the next few weeks, Cook County Sheriff's Police will begin asking suburban police departments throughout Cook County to take over patrols of unincorporated county areas.

The switchover is part of a larger plan under which the county sheriff's police would concentrate on investigative work.

Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod this week that his department has adopted the recommendations of a study made earlier this year by Cresap, McCormick and Paget, Inc., which call for County police to stop patrolling unincorporated area. Instead, such patrol will be contracted with nearby municipal police departments and the Sheriff's police will concentrate on follow-up investigative work.

"We have taken steps to implement a plan that would eventually have them give up all investigative work in favor of on-street patrol.

But there is a question whether the local police departments want to cooperate in such a program," Elrod said. "We are set up for it."

DES PLAINES Police Chief Arthur Hintz told the Herald his department will need more information on the proposed switchover before he can make a decision.

He said any changes would be up to the city council because he has no jurisdiction over appropriating finances for the police department.

Hintz indicated the Des Plaines police department would not require the Cook County Sheriff's Police investigating services, as some smaller communities would.

"I think we have a pretty complete detective bureau and youth division capable of carrying on major investigations, as they have in past," he said.

"I could see it as an advantage to smaller towns on a reciprocal arrangement were the towns handled the patrol work and the county does the investigating work," Hintz said.

He said larger suburbs in the county such as Des Plaines, Skokie, Evanston and Arlington Heights "have developed good investigators and to my knowledge have good detective bureaus."

"THEY'D TAKE away a good deal of the (men's) dedication," Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood said. "Then we'd have just the routine stuff. I'd prefer we make our own investigations."

Mount Prospect Police Chief Bert Giddens said that while any decision to participate would have to be made by the village board, he personally "would disagree with it."

One of the largest unincorporated areas in the Northwest suburbs, Prospect Heights, is near both towns. Elrod said he would want one of the three surrounding communities (Wheeling being the third) to contract to patrol Prospect Heights.

But Calderwood said he'd want no part of such a contract and Giddens said it would be an increased burden as "I need more men now to cover Mount Prospect."

The study contends that the sheriff's police force is inefficient in providing patrol services and most suburban police departments are too small to provide effective criminal investigations, surveillance and undercover work.

ELROD SAID his men's task in patrolling is made difficult because the 150,000 residents in unincorporated areas live on 260 square miles out of the county's total 900 square miles.

"We're not going to force (the new program) on anyone," Elrod said. "We have done some restructuring already. Now we will try to show the local departments it will be cheaper and more efficient."

The sheriff's department has already been changed to include a northern and southern section. A western section may be added soon. Both patrol and investigative divisions have been consolidated.

He said some Illinois Law Enforcement Commission grants have been obtained to improve communications and to establish a suburban crime laboratory.

In addition to the savings gained by not having to duplicate expensive laboratory equipment, Elrod said the suburban departments would save money and time also because men would not get tied down with long investigations.

AFTER BEING CROWNED last year as Paddock Publications Junior Miss, Barbara Jean Gorgol of Des Plaines went on to be named Illinois Junior Miss and third runnerup in the national competition. Miss Gorgol and Carol Jernberg, Arlington Heights Junior Miss of 1971-72, will be at the pageant this Sunday to congratulate the two new winners.

Man Charged With Assault Of Off-Duty Policeman

A Des Plaines man was charged with assault and public intoxication during the weekend after he allegedly attempted to punch an off-duty police patrolman.

According to reports, Patrolman Wendall Whitted was leaving the police station parking lot on Jefferson Street after finishing work early Saturday morning when his auto was struck from behind by another car.

Whitted said in his reports that the driver of the other car, identified as Fred G. Martin, 32, of 1384 Brown St., Des Plaines, got out of his car, opened the driver's side door of Whitted's auto. Martin then pulled his arm back as if to punch the police officer.

More Money Going To Classrooms

Teachers and administrators at East Maine Elementary School Dist. 63 last week finalized revised budget plans that will put more money into the classroom instead of into administrative spending.

Teachers had protested a board of education plan to use $39,000 in unbudgeted money for administative use during a board meeting last month attended by about 100 teachers and East Maine residents.

The teachers complained the money could best be spent on "critical classroom needs" such as books and teaching supplies. The board agreed to review a little of classroom needs prepared by teachers and last week allocated $14,785 of the $39,000 to meet those needs.

Teachers are asking for more voice in school operations and policy, according to Henry O'Neill, president of the East Maine Education Association. "We've been having trouble getting the idea across that we are not negotiating just for salary. We want total involvement in the school operation," he said.

"WE SHOULD have a part in determination of policy by being asked for our point of view, said O'Neill. "The only communication I see is one way." He added that G. Allan Gogo, superintendent at Dist. 63 is responsible for the lack of teacher input.

The $39,000 in unbudgeted money resulted from a decrease in enrollment of 380 children from last year and the scraping of plans to hire more teachers. Gogo asked the money be applied to printing and publishing for the office of the director of communications, increases in hospitalization insurance for administrators, chairs for the conference room, mimeograph machines, typewriters, and other supplies.

"We feel these expenditures are not directly related to classroom needs, which we consider pressing and urgent," O'Neill told the board last month. "As more than half of these recommended increases are solely for the administrative function of our schools, we strongly object to the fact that these monies are even being considered before classroom needs," he said.

Some of the needs listed by the teachers were mats for the wall behind the basketball back boards, microscopes and chairs. At Apollo there is a shortage of science textbooks, said O'Neill. There are 225 students who use 75 science textbooks, he said.

Gogo told the Herald yesterday that the teacher's complaint that classroom needs were more important than administrative needs is an "irrational argument."

GOGO SAID the condition of the conference room is "tragic" and that board members feel a district this size should have a better conference room. The room has no carpeting or drapes, he said, and people attending meetings at Dist. 63 must sit for hours on metal folding chairs.

Gogo said teachers are asked for opinions and that he has stressed teacher input since he joined Dist. 63 in July. "No district in Illinois creates more opportunity for input," he said. Since Gogo came to Dist. 63 he has created three advisory committees, the Faculty Advisory Committee, the Administrative Advisory Committee and the District Curriculum Council. He added the committees are only advisory and have not policy-making power.

Gogo said teachers should be involved in the budget process and he plans to form "need committees" of teachers to work on the budget. "Professional people ought to be consulted," said Gogo, "we ought to be aware of what teachers think about needs and priorities."

O'Neill said teachers are hoping to affiliate with a teacher's union so they will have more voice in salary negotiations and policy-making at Dist. 63. "We need expert help," said O'Neill, "we need the stature and experience of an organization to help us in putting forward our views and expectations."

The East Maine Educational Association is now setting up discussion meetings between Dist. 63 teachers and representatives from the Illinois Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers.

Approve Further Study Of School Remodel Plans

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 school board gave the administration approval for more study of a $2.3 million remodeling program at two of the district's junior high schools.

If the decision is made to go ahead with the remodeling, a voter referendum to secure the necessary funds would have to be held, according to board member Judith Zanca. The two junior high schools are Grove in Elk Grove Village and Dempster in Mount Prospect.

James Erviti, superintendent of Dist. 59, said the administration will present the remodeling plans to faculty members at both schools to get their opinions and suggestions.

Erviti said he expected faculty suggestions to result in at least some changes in the present remodeling plans.

The approval to get faculty suggestions was given at the board's regular meeting Monday.

SINCE THE PLANS may be altered by the faculty's suggestions, the board and the administration agreed that it would be better to get teacher input before seeking community support.

Board member Al Domanico said that when the board does seek community support, the public should be aware of the poor heating and ventilating systems at the two schools. "We should ask the community to allow us to house those kids properly."

On Nov. 11, Scott Kelley, of the Berger, Kelley & Associates architectural firm which drew up the remodeling plans, took board and administration members on an inspection of the schools. Kelley pointed out that the heating and ventilating systems at the schools were poorly designed and did not function properly.

Kelley estimated that one-third of the remodeling cost would be for replacement of the heating and ventilating systems.

Before the plans are presented to the faculty, Erviti said the board, "should feel in its heart it is willing to proceed with the plans." He said he was not asking the board for a definite commitment, but the board should be serious in considering the possibility of remodeling the schools.

ALTHOUGH NO official motion was made, the board members indicated they were willing to proceed with the plans and wanted the faculty's suggestions.

Erviti told the board that he favored having the work done in phases so disruption of the classes at the two schools would be kept to a minimum. The alternative to phasing the work would be closing the schools for the duration of the project.

School board members agreed the work should be done in phases.

Sidewalk To Cost 7 Property Owners More Than $32,000

A Wolf Road sidewalk approved by the city council Monday could cost seven northside Des Plaines property owners more than $32,000.

The council, meeting after Herald press deadline, rescinded a Nov. 7 motion to send the project to the Board of Local Improvements and passed an ordinance to finance the construction through "short form assessment."

The project, more than 6,000 feet of sidewalk on the west side of Wolf Road from Central Road to Princeton Streets, was requested by homowners last spring. City officials promised completion this year.

The council awarded the $32,251.75 sidewalk bid to Capital Cement Co.

Notices to property owners were mailed yesterday, stating that the firm can begin work in 30 days on the project with billing to adjacent landholders.

Largest bill may go to M. L. Moehling, 395 N. Eighth Ave., for 1,073 feet at $9.77 a foot. Total is $10,480.

Other possible bills are William Tagge, 1416 Ashland Ave., $2,216; Sylvia Tagge and George Gniot, 1416 Ashland Ave., $1,459; Phillips Petroleum Co. $1,416; Pierce Wynn, Lincolnwood, $790 and $710; Joseph Miller, Fontana, Wis., $3,124; and Harold Kunkel, 575 Berkshire Lane, $1,194.

PUNCH AND JUDY would have felt at home last Thursday night in the Maine, Oakton and Niles Adult and Continuing Program (MONACEP) course in puppetry. Monacep schedules over 40 courses each semester for residents of Maine and Niles township. In the puppetry class students make and manipulate the puppets and stage programs. Puppetry is taught as a creative art form useful in teaching, therapy or for personal pleasure. Instructor Hans Schmidt shows student Mrs. Donald Snowdon a puppetry technique.

PUPPETRY IS a serious business for Harry Comerford, 6. The five week course will be offered again during the winter tem in January at $20 for in-district students. Anyone wishing information on MONACEP programs may write the office at 1131 S. Dee Rd., Park Ridge, or call 696-3600

More Money Going To Classrooms

Teachers and administrators at East Maine Elementary School Dist. 63 last week finalized revised budget plans that will put more money into the classroom instead of into administrative spending.

Teachers had protested a board of education plan to use $39,000 in unbudgeted money for administative use during a board meeting last month attended by about 100 teachers and East Maine residents.

The teachers complained the money could best be spent on "critical classroom needs" such as books and teaching supplies. The board agreed to review a little of classroom needs prepared by teachers and last week allocated $14,785 of the $39,000 to meet those needs.

Teachers are asking for more voice in school operations and policy, according to Henry O'Neill, president of the East Maine Education Association. "We've been having trouble getting the idea across that we are not negotiating just for salary. We want total involvement in the school operation," he said.

"WE SHOULD have a part in determination of policy by being asked for our point of view, said O'Neill. "The only communication I see is one way." He added that G. Allan Gogo, superintendent at Dist. 63 is responsible for the lack of teacher input.

The $39,000 in unbudgeted money resulted from a decrease in enrollment of 380 children from last year and the scraping of plans to hire more teachers. Gogo asked the money be applied to printing and publishing for the office of the director of communications, increases in hospitalization insurance for administrators, chairs for the conference room, mimeograph machines, typewriters, and other supplies.

"We feel these expenditures are not directly related to classroom needs, which we consider pressing and urgent," O'Neill told the board last month. "As more than half of these recommended increases are solely for the administrative function of our schools, we strongly object to the fact that these monies are even being considered before classroom needs," he said.

Some of the needs listed by the teachers were mats for the wall behind the basketball back boards, microscopes and chairs. At Apollo there is a shortage of science textbooks, said O'Neill. There are 225 students who use 75 science textbooks, he said.

Gogo told the Herald yesterday that the teacher's complaint that classroom needs were more important than administrative needs is an "irrational argument."

GOGO SAID the condition of the conference room is "tragic" and that board members feel a district this size should have a better conference room. The room has no carpeting or drapes, he said, and people attending meetings at Dist. 63 must sit for hours on metal folding chairs.

Gogo said teachers are asked for opinions and that he has stressed teacher input since he joined Dist. 63 in July. "No district in Illinois creates more opportunity for input," he said. Since Gogo came to Dist. 63 he has created three advisory committees, the Faculty Advisory Committee, the Administrative Advisory Committee and the District Curriculum Council. He added the committees are only advisory and have not policy-making power.

Gogo said teachers should be involved in the budget process and he plans to form "need committees" of teachers to work on the budget. "Professional people ought to be consulted," said Gogo, "we ought to be aware of what teachers think about needs and priorities."

O'Neill said teachers are hoping to affiliate with a teacher's union so they will have more voice in salary negotiations and policy-making at Dist. 63. "We need expert help," said O'Neill, "we need the stature and experience of an organization to help us in putting forward our views and expectations."

The East Maine Educational Association is now setting up discussion meetings between Dist. 63 teachers and representatives from the Illinois Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers.

Drive-In Bank Would Snarl Traffic On Lee: Architect

A Des Plaines architectural commissioner has criticized approval of a drive-in bank building permit, warning that the plan could cause traffic problems on Lee Street.

The commissioner, Orville Kurtz, head of Orville I. Kurtz & Associates, architects and engineers, contends that "the stacking or waiting space for cars was inadequate" in the plan.

The proposed four-teller drive-in will be built by Des Plaines Trust Bank at Lee Street and Forest Avenue.

Kurtz objected to the plan in a Nov. 7 letter to city building officials, aldermen and Mayor Herbert Behrel. Des Plaines granted the permit Oct. 13.

The controversy surfaced Monday night when Ald. Joseph Szabo (1st), a member of the council's municipal development committee, asked Building Commissioner Alfred Prickett for a "full report" on the permit application.

"I don't think this is the place to air it — if there is a problem," Behrel said.

KURTZ' LETTER objects to car waiting space and charges that "employe parking and driveway did not meet city standards."

Prickett told the council that the plan was modified after review by the architectural commission. "I'm surprised that it was even brought up," he told the Herald.

By requiring an increase in the parking angle of 11 employe cars, from 30 to 45 degrees, Prickett claims the driveway width into the drive-in will increase from 8 to 13 feet.

The bank's plans show a 250-foot driveway that curves into four teller stalls. Although the bank did not submit a sketch to show the number of off-street cars that could occupy the corner lot, Prickett estimated the total at 24. "That's more than at our other two drive-ins," he said.

The bank plans show two exits on Forest Avenue, one for cars that have completed drive-in banking and another "emergency exit" for cars in the waiting line. "I assume they'll have a guard there who can move cars out (the 'emergency exit') if there's a backup," said architectural commission.

City ordinances do not specify amount of off-street parking required at a drive-in building.

"You can't deny a man a permit when there's no ordinance," Prickett said yesterday.

The three-member architectural commission is a voluntary, non-paid team of architects that aids the city building department. Commission recommendations are advisory only. The final decision to grant a building permit is Prickett's.

"AS LONG AS I'm here I'm going to listen to the commission," Prickett said. "These are top men, experts in their fields who go out of their way to help the city."

Kurtz' letter claims that the drive-in building permit will cause people to "think of the architectural commission and myself as nothing more than rubber stamps. 'If your plans aren't approved by the architectural commission, don't worry about it, it doesn't mean a thing!' " the letter states.

"If our recommendations and comments carry no more value than it appears they do, then I think the commission should be abolished," Kurtz said. "At this point I obviously am not particularly impressed with the usefulness of the architectural commission and would not be brokenhearted if you had another candidate available to replace me."

Kurtz refused yesterday to discuss his objections to the drive-in. "I prefer not to get involved. The permit has been issued. I felt like advising someone how I felt," he said.

The letter "wasn't a direct resignation. It's open ended," Kurtz added.

Behrel answered the letter Nov. 15.

"I shall be happy to have you continue as a member of the commission but if you decide you want to resign, that decision is entirely up to you," he said.

Four Firms Involved Withheld Comment

Schools Study Assessments

by WANDALYN RICE

Local school officials expressed interest yesterday in charges that there may be drastic underassessments in Schaumburg Township, but cautiously avoided commiting their districts to a lawsuit to challenge the assessments.

The Citizen's Action Propram (CAP) and Illinois Education Association (IEA) Monday released a report charging that underassessments of four corporations in the township will cost local governments $4.7 million in tax money next year.

Spokesmen for the four firms involved generally withheld comment on the charges yesterday. The four are Woodfield Mall, Motorola Inc.-Communications Division, Union Oil Co. and Meadow Trace Apartment complex.

The IEA, when the charges were released, said it will ask affected school districts to file suit against the Cook County assessor and offered its legal services.

Marvin Lapicola, director of business services for Schaumburg Twp. Elementary Dist. 54, said he personally checks the assessments and tax bills for the four companies each year because they represent a major portion of the district's tax money.

ACCORDING TO the CAP report, Dist. 54 stands to lose $1,663,982 in tax money because of the underassessments.

Lapicola said he could not be sure of the figures cited by CAP, but added that he had questioned officials at the county assessor's office about the properties and "it's very difficult to get anything from the assessor's office. The procedures seem to change from day to day."

Lapicola added, "I personally don't know that there are tax concessions made to entice companies to build in this area, but I personally feel that there are." He said another school business manager had told him that Oak Brook Shopping Center was underassessed for 18 years before public pressure forced the assessment up.

Lapicola said he did not know how Dist. 54's board would react to the IEA suggestion that the district sue the assessor's office to raise the assessment, but added, "In fairness to homeowners, I think the companies out here should not be here on a charitable basis."

Supt. Frank Whitely, of Palatine Township Dist. 15, said he and his business manager were checking CAP figures that indicate the district will lose $118,810 because of the underassessment of Motorola. He said the district only has a small part of Motorola property and added, "They've roughly doubled the value of Motorola with the figure. We can't quite believe we lose that much."

HARPER COLLEGE Pres. Robert Lahti, whose school will lose $112,482 according to CAP, said he was sure his board would be interested in the findings. "Anything more we would receive could go toward the deficit in our building and maintenance fund," he said.

High School Dist. 211 Supt. Richard Kolze said he could not comment on the report without further study. According to CAP, Dist. 211 loses $1,670,107 from the underassessment. Dist. 211 board president Robert Creek, who is also executive vice president of Union Oil Co., was unavailable for comment yesterday.

However, a public relations officer for Union Oil, said his company, "Would like to see more about what they're protesting about." The report charges that Union Oil's 20 acres of land is underassessed. The spokesman said, "It's hard to say what the land is worth because what it's worth now will probably be different than what it will be worth six months from now."

A representative of Motorola said company officials were studying the charges and would have a comment today, while representatives of Woodfield and Kassuba Builders, owners of Meadow Trace, were unavailable for comment.

Last year, CAP made similar charges of underassessments about Arlington Park Race Track and other race tracks in the Chicago area. Four school districts, including Harper, Dist. 15, Dist. 211 and Dist. 214 agreed at that time to join a class action suit planned by the Illinois Association of School Boards to get reassessment of the track.

Last June, representatives of the IASB said they were delaying filing suit awaiting the outcome of a federal court suit filed against the assessor by independent Democrat Donald Page Moore.

Sessions for three year olds will be at 1 p.m. with four year olds at 2 p.m. every Thursday beginning Jan. 4. Classes for older children will be Saturday mornings beginning Jan. 6.

Registration can be made at the park district office, 748 Pearson St.

Job Placement Office Is Opened At Oakton

Oakton Community College has opened a student job placement office for both career and part-time employment. Steven C. Friedman, who is in charge of student placement, directs the program.

The college provides a number of programs, including a weekly job opportunity bulletin for full-and part-time employment; appointment scheduling with prospective employers; primary screening of applications to meet minimum standards or qualifications as specified by the employer; career guidance and counseling; distribution of career information; faculty-employer liaison to provide classroom work experience information; and general assistance in preparing resumes for the job seeker.

According to John P. Donohue, dean of student personnel, the new program is intended to strengthen the occupational, educational and business communities it serves. "By alerting members of the Community, Oakton hopes to open more avenues of employment than are presently available."

Questions regarding employment of students may be directed to Steven Friedman, student placement office, Oakton Community College, 7900 N. Nagle Avenue, Morton Grove 60053, or by telephone at 967-5120, extension 213.

Police Auction Dec. 2

The Des Plaines Police Department will hold a bicycle auction Saturday, Dec. 2, in the police garage at 1418 Miner St.

The auction will begin at 10 a.m. Police say there are about 20 bikes that will be auctioned as well as electric shavers, car stereo tape decks, typewriters, radios and other items.

Elk Grove Bd. Votes Insurance Hike

Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 has increased its insurance coverage to include bonding of employes, loss of funds and securities, and blanket coverage for musical instruments.

Total cost of the increased coverage is about $1,425.

The bonding insurance, required by law, covers all employes to $5,000 and central office employes to $30,000. Funds and securities are covered to a limit of $5,000. the musical instrument covers about $52,000 worth of school-owned instruments.

The school board approved the additional insurance coverage at the board's meeting Monday.

THE BOARD rejected a theft insurance policy for school buildings and the central warehouse as too expensive for the coverage.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administration, told the board that the insurance fund of the school budget did not have appropriations for the additional coverage. He said premiums would be paid from the educational fund.

Board member Gerald Smiley brought up for discussion the district's policy concerning rental fees charged to groups for the use of school facilities.

Smiley said that certain fees appeared excessively high.

The board took no action on the rental policy, but the consensus of the members was that the rental policy was reasonable. Board Pres. Harry Peterson suggested that persons or groups who are now paying a high fee should contact the school administration to see if a lower fee was available by using different facilities.

IN OTHER action, the board:

—officially appointed the members of the citizens' reorganization committee which is studying the possibility of Dist. 59 forming a unit school district. The committee has already begun holding meetings.

—agreed to meet with the Elk Grove Park District Board to discuss the park district's request to have first priority on use of school facilities during after-school hours.

Park Board Pres. Ed Hauser, in a letter to the school board, said the school's present policy of first come, first serve on use of facilities makes it difficult for the park district to schedule regular programs.

The school board sent a tentative date of Nov. 27 for the meeting.

—agreed to attend a meeting, hosted by High School Dist. 214, to discuss unit districting. All elementary districts in Dist. 214 were invited to the meeting at 6 p.m. next Wednesday at Rolling Meadows High School.

—passed a resolution commending the Parents' Arts Council for its work.

—approved disbursements with educational fund expenditures totaling $94,410.

—received a financial statement for the four months ending Oct. 31, 1972.

—agreed to contribute the district's "fair share" toward the cost of Dist. 214 joining the Educational Research and Development Association (Ed-Red). Ed-Red is a state lobbying organization. The district's cost was estimated at $150-$200.

—accepted the resignation of Joan Barron, Learning disability teacher at Dempster Junior High School.

The controversy surfaced Monday night when Ald. Joseph Szabo (1st), a member of the council's municipal development committee, asked Building Commissioner Alfred Prickett for a "full report" on the permit application.

"I don't think this is the place to air it — if there is a problem," Behrel said.

KURTZ' LETTER objects to car waiting space and charges that "employe parking and driveway did not meet city standards."

Prickett told the council that the plan was modified after review by the architectural commission. "I'm surprised that it was even brought up," he told the Herald.

By requiring an increase in the parking angle of 11 employe cars, from 30 to 45 degrees, Prickett claims the driveway width into the drive-in will increase from 8 to 13 feet.

The bank's plans show a 250-foot driveway that curves into four teller stalls. Although the bank did not submit a sketch to show the number of off-street cars that could occupy the corner lot, Prickett estimated the total at 24. "That's more than at our other two drive-ins," he said.

The bank plans show two exits on Forest Avenue, one for cars that have completed drive-in banking and another "emergency exit" for cars in the waiting line. "I assume they'll have a guard there who can move cars out (the 'emergency exit') if there's a backup," said architectural commission.

City ordinances do not specify amount of off-street parking required at a drive-in building.

"You can't deny a man a permit when there's no ordinance," Prickett said yesterday.

The three-member architectural commission is a voluntary, non-paid team of architects that aids the city building department. Commission recommendations are advisory only. The final decision to grant a building permit is Prickett's.

"AS LONG AS I'm here I'm going to listen to the commission," Prickett said. "These are top men, experts in their fields who go out of their way to help the city."

Kurtz' letter claims that the drive-in building permit will cause people to "think of the architectural commission and myself as nothing more than rubber stamps. 'If your plans aren't approved by the architectural commission, don't worry about it, it doesn't mean a thing!' " the letter states.

"If our recommendations and comments carry no more value than it appears they do, then I think the commission should be abolished," Kurtz said. "At this point I obviously am not particularly impressed with the usefulness of the architectural commission and would not be brokenhearted if you had another candidate available to replace me."

Kurtz refused yesterday to discuss his objections to the drive-in. "I prefer not to get involved. The permit has been issued. I felt like advising someone how I felt," he said.

The letter "wasn't a direct resignation. It's open ended," Kurtz added.

Behrel answered the letter Nov. 15.

"I shall be happy to have you continue as a member of the commission but if you decide you want to resign, that decision is entirely up to you," he said.

Four Firms Involved Withheld Comment

Schools Study Assessments

by WANDALYN RICE

Local school officials expressed interest yesterday in charges that there may be drastic underassessments in Schaumburg Township, but cautiously avoided commiting their districts to a lawsuit to challenge the assessments.

The Citizen's Action Propram (CAP) and Illinois Education Association (IEA) Monday released a report charging that underassessments of four corporations in the township will cost local governments $4.7 million in tax money next year.

Spokesmen for the four firms involved generally withheld comment on the charges yesterday. The four are Woodfield Mall, Motorola Inc.-Communications Division, Union Oil Co. and Meadow Trace Apartment complex.

The IEA, when the charges were released, said it will ask affected school districts to file suit against the Cook County assessor and offered its legal services.

Marvin Lapicola, director of business services for Schaumburg Twp. Elementary Dist. 54, said he personally checks the assessments and tax bills for the four companies each year because they represent a major portion of the district's tax money.

ACCORDING TO the CAP report, Dist. 54 stands to lose $1,663,982 in tax money because of the underassessments.

Lapicola said he could not be sure of the figures cited by CAP, but added that he had questioned officials at the county assessor's office about the properties and "it's very difficult to get anything from the assessor's office. The procedures seem to change from day to day."

Lapicola added, "I personally don't know that there are tax concessions made to entice companies to build in this area, but I personally feel that there are." He said another school business manager had told him that Oak Brook Shopping Center was underassessed for 18 years before public pressure forced the assessment up.

Lapicola said he did not know how Dist. 54's board would react to the IEA suggestion that the district sue the assessor's office to raise the assessment, but added, "In fairness to homeowners, I think the companies out here should not be here on a charitable basis."

Supt. Frank Whitely, of Palatine Township Dist. 15, said he and his business manager were checking CAP figures that indicate the district will lose $118,810 because of the underassessment of Motorola. He said the district only has a small part of Motorola property and added, "They've roughly doubled the value of Motorola with the figure. We can't quite believe we lose that much."

HARPER COLLEGE Pres. Robert Lahti, whose school will lose $112,482 according to CAP, said he was sure his board would be interested in the findings. "Anything more we would receive could go toward the deficit in our building and maintenance fund," he said.

High School Dist. 211 Supt. Richard Kolze said he could not comment on the report without further study. According to CAP, Dist. 211 loses $1,670,107 from the underassessment. Dist. 211 board president Robert Creek, who is also executive vice president of Union Oil Co., was unavailable for comment yesterday.

However, a public relations officer for Union Oil, said his company, "Would like to see more about what they're protesting about." The report charges that Union Oil's 20 acres of land is underassessed. The spokesman said, "It's hard to say what the land is worth because what it's worth now will probably be different than what it will be worth six months from now."

A representative of Motorola said company officials were studying the charges and would have a comment today, while representatives of Woodfield and Kassuba Builders, owners of Meadow Trace, were unavailable for comment.

Last year, CAP made similar charges of underassessments about Arlington Park Race Track and other race tracks in the Chicago area. Four school districts, including Harper, Dist. 15, Dist. 211 and Dist. 214 agreed at that time to join a class action suit planned by the Illinois Association of School Boards to get reassessment of the track.

Last June, representatives of the IASB said they were delaying filing suit awaiting the outcome of a federal court suit filed against the assessor by independent Democrat Donald Page Moore.

Job Placement Office Is Opened At Oakton

Oakton Community College has opened a student job placement office for both career and part-time employment. Steven C. Friedman, who is in charge of student placement, directs the program.

The college provides a number of programs, including a weekly job opportunity bulletin for full-and part-time employment; appointment scheduling with prospective employers; primary screening of applications to meet minimum standards or qualifications as specified by the employer; career guidance and counseling; distribution of career information; faculty-employer liaison to provide classroom work experience information; and general assistance in preparing resumes for the job seeker.

According to John P. Donohue, dean of student personnel, the new program is intended to strengthen the occupational, educational and business communities it serves. "By alerting members of the Community, Oakton hopes to open more avenues of employment than are presently available."

Questions regarding employment of students may be directed to Steven Friedman, student placement office, Oakton Community College, 7900 N. Nagle Avenue, Morton Grove 60053, or by telephone at 967-5120, extension 213.

Police Auction Dec. 2

The Des Plaines Police Department will hold a bicycle auction Saturday, Dec. 2, in the police garage at 1418 Miner St.

The auction will begin at 10 a.m. Police say there are about 20 bikes that will be auctioned as well as electric shavers, car stereo tape decks, typewriters, radios and other items.

Elk Grove Bd. Votes Insurance Hike

Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 has increased its insurance coverage to include bonding of employes, loss of funds and securities, and blanket coverage for musical instruments.

Total cost of the increased coverage is about $1,425.

The bonding insurance, required by law, covers all employes to $5,000 and central office employes to $30,000. Funds and securities are covered to a limit of $5,000. the musical instrument covers about $52,000 worth of school-owned instruments.

The school board approved the additional insurance coverage at the board's meeting Monday.

THE BOARD rejected a theft insurance policy for school buildings and the central warehouse as too expensive for the coverage.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administration, told the board that the insurance fund of the school budget did not have appropriations for the additional coverage. He said premiums would be paid from the educational fund.

Board member Gerald Smiley brought up for discussion the district's policy concerning rental fees charged to groups for the use of school facilities.

Smiley said that certain fees appeared excessively high.

The board took no action on the rental policy, but the consensus of the members was that the rental policy was reasonable. Board Pres. Harry Peterson suggested that persons or groups who are now paying a high fee should contact the school administration to see if a lower fee was available by using different facilities.

IN OTHER action, the board:

—officially appointed the members of the citizens' reorganization committee which is studying the possibility of Dist. 59 forming a unit school district. The committee has already begun holding meetings.

—agreed to meet with the Elk Grove Park District Board to discuss the park district's request to have first priority on use of school facilities during after-school hours.

Park Board Pres. Ed Hauser, in a letter to the school board, said the school's present policy of first come, first serve on use of facilities makes it difficult for the park district to schedule regular programs.

The school board sent a tentative date of Nov. 27 for the meeting.

—agreed to attend a meeting, hosted by High School Dist. 214, to discuss unit districting. All elementary districts in Dist. 214 were invited to the meeting at 6 p.m. next Wednesday at Rolling Meadows High School.

—passed a resolution commending the Parents' Arts Council for its work.

—approved disbursements with educational fund expenditures totaling $94,410.

—received a financial statement for the four months ending Oct. 31, 1972.

—agreed to contribute the district's "fair share" toward the cost of Dist. 214 joining the Educational Research and Development Association (Ed-Red). Ed-Red is a state lobbying organization. The district's cost was estimated at $150-$200.

—accepted the resignation of Joan Barron, Learning disability teacher at Dempster Junior High School.

Legislators: Reject Pay Hike

An effort to increase the salaries of Illinois legislators is expected in the "lame-duck" session of the General Assembly which will begin this Sunday.

While not necessarily opposed to pay increases for representatives and senators, the Herald believes the practice of delaying the question of added salaries until after election day to be a disservice to the voters.

For that reason, we urge that any attempt at a pay hike be defeated in the coming legislative session.

Illinois law forbids increasing salaries of elected officials during their current term. Part of the intent of that law is to allow the voters to pass judgment on their elected officials at the next election if they choose to increase their pay.

Most of the legislators voting on any proposed pay increase in this abbreviated session will return to Springfield in less than six weeks to begin new terms at the salary level on which they are expected to vote in the next week or two.

Most incumbent suburban legislators, in interviews with the Herald before the election, indicated they would oppose a pay raise in the post-election series. We applaud that position and urge those who believe that pay raises are in order to forego that belief until the new legislative session convenes in January, in order to uphold the principle of elected officials not raising their own salaries for their current term.

Proposals may also be made for automatic cost-of-living raises for legislators, or for added expense money.

When legislative salaries were raised from $12,000 to $17,500 per year in 1969, the Illinois legislature became second only to California in pay scales.

However, the California legislature enjoys generous expense allowances which put it far beyond its Illinois counterpart.

It is a misconception among many Illinoisans that their legislators are paid for expenses incurred while in Springfield The fact is, however, that hotel and meal expenses must come from their salaries. They are allowed mileage costs of one round trip from their home to Springfield each week that the General Assembly is in session, although many are required to make more than one trip a week.

We do believe legislators to be entitled to more liberal expense allowances and do not believe that they should need to wait two years for relief in that area.

We would therefore favor a reasonable increase in expense funds during next week's session, and believe that it should negate any question of added salaries at this time.

All Under One Roof

A revolutionary "megastructure," a totally enclosed urban environment which its designers claim portends the shape of things to come in American cities, will begin going up in Atlanta early in 1973.

The 14-story, $65-million complex called Omni International will include — take a breath — a hotel of more than 500 rooms, 600,000 square feet of office space, a five-level trade pavilion, 10 movie theaters seating 350 people each, an indoor-outdoor swimming pool, a regulation-size ice skating rink, two tennis courts, international shops and ethnic restaurants.

Expected to be three years in the building, Omni International will encompass 34 million cubic feet of space, including eight million cubic feet of open space for an interior court, or "central meeting place," soaring the full 14 stores and faced with 600,000 square feet of windows A 200-foot escalator, the world's longest, will rise from ground level to the top of the trade pavilion.

To figure out how to heat and air-condition the central court alone was a mammoth engineering task.

Omni International will adjoin the Omni, Atlanta's new $17-million indoor sports and entertainment facility, and will be serviced by the under-construction Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit System.

General Sherman, thou shouldst be living now.

The Public's Issue

Two-Party System: Dying?

This week it's the Democrats' turn to look back at the past election.

Our "Public's Issue" columnist this week is Lynn A. Williams, Democratic committeeman from New Trier Twp. since 1966. Williams lives in Winnetka but owns his own firm in Elk Grove Village Centex industrial park.

Regarded as a "maverick" Democrat, Williams' organization has been able to produce large suburban vote totals for Democratic anti-machine candidates. In 1970, New Trier Twp. went for Democrat Adlai Stevenson III, over the GOP's incumbent senator, Ralph Tyler Smith.

by LYNN A. WILLIAMS
State Central Committeeman

The last election yielded as many questions as answers. At the Presidential level, personalities were given more determination than principles, policies or platforms. The Nixon landslide was not a Republican victory; the President faces Democratic legislators in the Congress, many of whom were elected on platforms quite contradictory to that of the White House.

But one tendency of the election is clear. Party allegiance continues to deteriorate and an increasing number of voters pick the man and not the party.

This independent voting tendency is now being recognized and stimulateed by alert politicians. Nixon asked voters to "re-elect the President" whereas a few years ago he would have urged them to "Vote Republican." Senator Percy proclaimed that he was "his own man."

Indeed, independent voting has moved from an indifference to party labels toward a militant hostility to political parties. Dan Walker won the Democratic nomination last March partly because of his avowed independence of the regular Democratic organization.

In this area, the pattern of independent voting began more than a decade ago in the established North Shore suburbs like Evanston and New Trier townships. It had spread to the newer Northwest suburbs. But in this election, for the first time, the black voters of Chicago who have, heretofore, accounded for 46 per cent of the Democratic vote in the city, broke away from the traditional straight ticket voting. Many black wards gave substantial pluralities to Republican Carey over Democrat Hanrahan. These were the same wards which gave McGovern margins of 90-10 or better.

Parenthetically, this fact tends to vindicate the judgment of those of us Democrats who opposed the slating and nomination of Hanrahan. He was defeated on precisely the grounds of our opposition, namely his attraction of the racist backlash vote and his mercuric temperament.

While the growth of independence in voting is usually applauded, suggesting a liberation from the blind habitude of voting the party line without thought or discrimination, it does threaten an important institutional base which heretofore has made our government workable.

A political party, at its best, brings together people who have a shared view as to what the government ought to be. Seen in this way the parties, when their candidates are elected, accept the responsibility for the overall result of their administration of the government. If the party does well, its officials can expect to be reelected, if badly, then defeated.

The parties ought to be channels for citizen participation in government. They can provide the means by which citizens who have dissimilar, but compatible causes, can work together to further all these shared purposes.

Of course, the two parties in the United States have never achieved this perfection of unity. The republicans have had both Goldwater, the conservative, and Javits, the liberal. The Democrats have had both Senator Paul Douglas, a liberal, and Senator Eastland of Mississippi, a reactionary.

Nevertheless, until recently, party allegiance and the sense of shared responsibility was an influential factor in bringing a President and a Congress into accord for action.

Now we see a Republican President, elected in a landslide, but faced with a Democratic Senate and House. In Illinois we see a Democratic governor faced with Republican majorities in both houses in the Illinois legislature.

Neither situation is a novelty. It isn't altogether new either that President Nixon won't be able to demand support from Republicans in the U.S. Congress or that Governor Walker won't be able to demand the support of Democrats in the legislature in Springfield.

But the trend toward disintegration continues. And it can lead to a paralysis of government at the very time when everything else about our society moves so rapidly that the government ought to be able to make the adjustments needed to meet the changed circumstances.

Whether the two parties can be restored to public confidence, whether the trend of their disintegration can be halted, is doubtful. If each party is to be pulled together, then each needs some kind of ideology or philosophy or shared views. But at the same time politicians know that ideas are dangerous. Every idea, every policy position, will be opposed by some. If a political party takes positions on enough issues, it will attract enough enemies to assure its defeat. Each party would need also to nominate candidates who share the same general views so as to avoid the anomaly of McGovern and Walker on the same slate with Hanrahan.

Independent voting suggests independent thinking (although it is more likely to be tied to independent feeling), but the next step in political sophistication is to recognize the value of the political parties.

Unfortunately, the leaders of both parties seem to be either unaware of the changes which they need to make in their parties or unwilling to accept these changes even when they know that they must.

The Democrats are under more pressure than the Republicans to make these changes. As a Democrat, I hope we find the will and the means to that end. As a citizen, I hope the same for the Republicans.

Tomorrow . . .

Fence Post Letters

School 'Truancy' Blasted

Dear Mrs. Kimball:

When your son is out in the working world, will his boss smile at him for coming in an hour late because he was working for the Republican Party the evening before?

When your son is in college, will his professors "understand" that he skipped his lecture in favor of personal political activity?

Mrs. Kimball, one of the qualities teachers and parents try to instill in our youth is a sense of responsibility. For the most part, we teachers believe that extra-curricular activities should never interfere with the student's biggest responsibility — his school work.

I know many teachers who worked until 2 a.m. election eve for their party but I certainly doubt if parents would feel that they had earned an extra hour's sleep the following day.

Your accusation that Prospect High School "does not promote good citizenship and active involvement" is certainly not substantiated with proof. Your attack is extremely broad and should not rest solely on the lack of political activity within the school.

I am sure you would agree that good citizenship is the composite of many things, and not just a reflection of political values.

Mrs. Kimball, there are laws in this school district regarding truancy. The laws are there to insure all children the right to an education, despite personal beliefs in attendance on the part of their families. Like all laws, they were made for several good reasons, which we are all familiar with. Asking a man of honor to stretch the law "just this once" because your son does well in school is unfair. You are asking him to deny his responsibility.

As a teacher and as a Prospect graduate, I cannot agree with all of Mr. Kulieke's policies. But please, let's not citicize him for maintainiing the laws of the school district!

Mrs. Bruce K. F. Thomas

Shirley Defends Wheeling High

At a recent public meeting, various groups of citizens were invited to express their concerns and interests regarding the realignment of high school attendance boundaries in the northern part of Dist. 214. Quite often, emotionalism is associated with such discussions and sometimes remarks are evoked that are less than complimentary. Such reaction and behavior is anticipated and, within limits, is accepted as part of the "process." At the board of education meeting on Monday, November 13, however, it was felt by many that several thousand fine citizens of Dist. 214 were unjustly maligned and "hurt" beyond tolerable levels when uncomplimentary emotion-filled comments and innuendoes were made about them, their children, and their school. The "citizens" of and for whom I offer comment is a group comprised of students and parents (past and present) and the faculty and staff of Wheeling High School. Dispersions cast at a school are really aimed at the people of a school. A school is people.

The degree of irresponsibility associated with such fallacious and unsubstantiated statements is only exceeded by the "hurt" the comments inflict upon the citizenry of the school. Those associated with the Wheeling High School family and whose encouragement motivated this letter because of the unjust remarks are:

—The 2900 day students and 200 Young Adult students presently enrolled at Wheeling High School.

—The 170 certificated and highly qualified professional staff members who teach at Wheeling High School.

—The 90 non-certificated dedicated staff members who work daily at Wheeling High School.

—The citizens of Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, and parts of Arlington Heights, Northbrook, and Prospect Heights.

—The 4000+ proud graduates of Wheeling High School who have taken their proper place in the many pursuits of life. Not to be forgotten are the many fine parents of the graduates.

—The many parents and friends of Wheeling High School who have labored (physically) and worked so hard for their school since its opening nine years ago.

Literally thousands of people stand behind the institution known as Wheeling High School and cause it to be what it is. In my estimation, they comprise a constituency second to none. To know them and to have worked with them is indeed a privilege. It is this cadre of thousands which has been incensed by the allegations — it is they who truly are Wheeling High School.

The consensus of those represented by this letter is that Wheeling High School has achieved high stature and accomplished a great many educational "firsts" since joining the proud family of District 214 schools. The contributions and services provided to date have been and are of sufficient quantity and quality to induce a fierce pride in our accomplishments. We hold our head high and rightly so. With no apologies, we, the citizenry of Wheeling High School, are proud to be associated with the school.

I wish to remind those associated with our school of a special responsibility at this time. We will not demean ourselves by being placed on the defensive by irresponsible statements of emotional people uttered during a time of stress. To do so would demonstrate a weakness never before associated with our school. You have every right to feel extremely proud of Wheeling High School and all it stands for and represents. Its many accomplishments have earned it great honor and respect in all realms of educational endeavor.

In conclusion, I would like to point out to our "critics" additional characteristics of the citizenry of Wheeling High School. They are forgiving, understanding, and accepting. On several occasions over the last nine years, we have had to bid farewell to "old" friends and welcome "new" ones as boundaries were changed. If, in the wisdom of our board of education, it is deemed advisable to assign you to the "Wheeling family," on the spirit of the Golden Rule, you will be welcome and the talents of your son and daughter will find bountiful opportunities for growth and development at Wheeling High School — a proud institution.

All Under One Roof

A revolutionary "megastructure," a totally enclosed urban environment which its designers claim portends the shape of things to come in American cities, will begin going up in Atlanta early in 1973.

The 14-story, $65-million complex called Omni International will include — take a breath — a hotel of more than 500 rooms, 600,000 square feet of office space, a five-level trade pavilion, 10 movie theaters seating 350 people each, an indoor-outdoor swimming pool, a regulation-size ice skating rink, two tennis courts, international shops and ethnic restaurants.

Expected to be three years in the building, Omni International will encompass 34 million cubic feet of space, including eight million cubic feet of open space for an interior court, or "central meeting place," soaring the full 14 stores and faced with 600,000 square feet of windows A 200-foot escalator, the world's longest, will rise from ground level to the top of the trade pavilion.

To figure out how to heat and air-condition the central court alone was a mammoth engineering task.

Omni International will adjoin the Omni, Atlanta's new $17-million indoor sports and entertainment facility, and will be serviced by the under-construction Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit System.

General Sherman, thou shouldst be living now.

The Public's Issue

Two-Party System: Dying?

This week it's the Democrats' turn to look back at the past election.

Our "Public's Issue" columnist this week is Lynn A. Williams, Democratic committeeman from New Trier Twp. since 1966. Williams lives in Winnetka but owns his own firm in Elk Grove Village Centex industrial park.

Regarded as a "maverick" Democrat, Williams' organization has been able to produce large suburban vote totals for Democratic anti-machine candidates. In 1970, New Trier Twp. went for Democrat Adlai Stevenson III, over the GOP's incumbent senator, Ralph Tyler Smith.

by LYNN A. WILLIAMS
10th Congressional District

The last election yielded as many questions as answers. At the Presidential level, personalities were given more determination than principles, policies or platforms. The Nixon landslide was not a Republican victory; the President faces Democratic legislators in the Congress, many of whom were elected on platforms quite contradictory to that of the White House.

But one tendency of the election is clear. Party allegiance continues to deteriorate and an increasing number of voters pick the man and not the party.

This independent voting tendency is now being recognized and stimulateed by alert politicians. Nixon asked voters to "re-elect the President" whereas a few years ago he would have urged them to "Vote Republican." Senator Percy proclaimed that he was "his own man."

Indeed, independent voting has moved from an indifference to party labels toward a militant hostility to political parties. Dan Walker won the Democratic nomination last March partly because of his avowed independence of the regular Democratic organization.

In this area, the pattern of independent voting began more than a decade ago in the established North Shore suburbs like Evanston and New Trier townships. It had spread to the newer Northwest suburbs. But in this election, for the first time, the black voters of Chicago who have, heretofore, accounded for 46 per cent of the Democratic vote in the city, broke away from the traditional straight ticket voting. Many black wards gave substantial pluralities to Republican Carey over Democrat Hanrahan. These were the same wards which gave McGovern margins of 90-10 or better.

Parenthetically, this fact tends to vindicate the judgment of those of us Democrats who opposed the slating and nomination of Hanrahan. He was defeated on precisely the grounds of our opposition, namely his attraction of the racist backlash vote and his mercuric temperament.

While the growth of independence in voting is usually applauded, suggesting a liberation from the blind habitude of voting the party line without thought or discrimination, it does threaten an important institutional base which heretofore has made our government workable.

A political party, at its best, brings together people who have a shared view as to what the government ought to be. Seen in this way the parties, when their candidates are elected, accept the responsibility for the overall result of their administration of the government. If the party does well, its officials can expect to be reelected, if badly, then defeated.

The parties ought to be channels for citizen participation in government. They can provide the means by which citizens who have dissimilar, but compatible causes, can work together to further all these shared purposes.

Of course, the two parties in the United States have never achieved this perfection of unity. The republicans have had both Goldwater, the conservative, and Javits, the liberal. The Democrats have had both Senator Paul Douglas, a liberal, and Senator Eastland of Mississippi, a reactionary.

Lynn A. Williams

Nevertheless, until recently, party allegiance and the sense of shared responsibility was an influential factor in bringing a President and a Congress into accord for action.

Now we see a Republican President, elected in a landslide, but faced with a Democratic Senate and House. In Illinois we see a Democratic governor faced with Republican majorities in both houses in the Illinois legislature.

Neither situation is a novelty. It isn't altogether new either that President Nixon won't be able to demand support from Republicans in the U.S. Congress or that Governor Walker won't be able to demand the support of Democrats in the legislature in Springfield.

But the trend toward disintegration continues. And it can lead to a paralysis of government at the very time when everything else about our society moves so rapidly that the government ought to be able to make the adjustments needed to meet the changed circumstances.

Whether the two parties can be restored to public confidence, whether the trend of their disintegration can be halted, is doubtful. If each party is to be pulled together, then each needs some kind of ideology or philosophy or shared views. But at the same time politicians know that ideas are dangerous. Every idea, every policy position, will be opposed by some. If a political party takes positions on enough issues, it will attract enough enemies to assure its defeat. Each party would need also to nominate candidates who share the same general views so as to avoid the anomaly of McGovern and Walker on the same slate with Hanrahan.

Independent voting suggests independent thinking (although it is more likely to be tied to independent feeling), but the next step in political sophistication is to recognize the value of the political parties.

Unfortunately, the leaders of both parties seem to be either unaware of the changes which they need to make in their parties or unwilling to accept these changes even when they know that they must.

The Democrats are under more pressure than the Republicans to make these changes. As a Democrat, I hope we find the will and the means to that end. As a citizen, I hope the same for the Republicans.

Tomorrow . . .

School 'Truancy' Blasted

Dear Mrs. Kimball:

When your son is out in the working world, will his boss smile at him for coming in an hour late because he was working for the Republican Party the evening before?

When your son is in college, will his professors "understand" that he skipped his lecture in favor of personal political activity?

Mrs. Kimball, one of the qualities teachers and parents try to instill in our youth is a sense of responsibility. For the most part, we teachers believe that extra-curricular activities should never interfere with the student's biggest responsibility — his school work.

I know many teachers who worked until 2 a.m. election eve for their party but I certainly doubt if parents would feel that they had earned an extra hour's sleep the following day.

Your accusation that Prospect High School "does not promote good citizenship and active involvement" is certainly not substantiated with proof. Your attack is extremely broad and should not rest solely on the lack of political activity within the school.

I am sure you would agree that good citizenship is the composite of many things, and not just a reflection of political values.

Mrs. Kimball, there are laws in this school district regarding truancy. The laws are there to insure all children the right to an education, despite personal beliefs in attendance on the part of their families. Like all laws, they were made for several good reasons, which we are all familiar with. Asking a man of honor to stretch the law "just this once" because your son does well in school is unfair. You are asking him to deny his responsibility.

As a teacher and as a Prospect graduate, I cannot agree with all of Mr. Kulieke's policies. But please, let's not citicize him for maintainiing the laws of the school district!

Mrs. Bruce K. F. Thomas

Shirley Defends Wheeling High

At a recent public meeting, various groups of citizens were invited to express their concerns and interests regarding the realignment of high school attendance boundaries in the northern part of Dist. 214. Quite often, emotionalism is associated with such discussions and sometimes remarks are evoked that are less than complimentary. Such reaction and behavior is anticipated and, within limits, is accepted as part of the "process." At the board of education meeting on Monday, November 13, however, it was felt by many that several thousand fine citizens of Dist. 214 were unjustly maligned and "hurt" beyond tolerable levels when uncomplimentary emotion-filled comments and innuendoes were made about them, their children, and their school. The "citizens" of and for whom I offer comment is a group comprised of students and parents (past and present) and the faculty and staff of Wheeling High School. Dispersions cast at a school are really aimed at the people of a school. A school is people.

The degree of irresponsibility associated with such fallacious and unsubstantiated statements is only exceeded by the "hurt" the comments inflict upon the citizenry of the school. Those associated with the Wheeling High School family and whose encouragement motivated this letter because of the unjust remarks are:

—The 2900 day students and 200 Young Adult students presently enrolled at Wheeling High School.

—The 170 certificated and highly qualified professional staff members who teach at Wheeling High School.

—The 90 non-certificated dedicated staff members who work daily at Wheeling High School.

—The citizens of Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, and parts of Arlington Heights, Northbrook, and Prospect Heights.

—The 4000+ proud graduates of Wheeling High School who have taken their proper place in the many pursuits of life. Not to be forgotten are the many fine parents of the graduates.

—The many parents and friends of Wheeling High School who have labored (physically) and worked so hard for their school since its opening nine years ago.

Literally thousands of people stand behind the institution known as Wheeling High School and cause it to be what it is. In my estimation, they comprise a constituency second to none. To know them and to have worked with them is indeed a privilege. It is this cadre of thousands which has been incensed by the allegations — it is they who truly are Wheeling High School.

The consensus of those represented by this letter is that Wheeling High School has achieved high stature and accomplished a great many educational "firsts" since joining the proud family of District 214 schools. The contributions and services provided to date have been and are of sufficient quantity and quality to induce a fierce pride in our accomplishments. We hold our head high and rightly so. With no apologies, we, the citizenry of Wheeling High School, are proud to be associated with the school.

I wish to remind those associated with our school of a special responsibility at this time. We will not demean ourselves by being placed on the defensive by irresponsible statements of emotional people uttered during a time of stress. To do so would demonstrate a weakness never before associated with our school. You have every right to feel extremely proud of Wheeling High School and all it stands for and represents. Its many accomplishments have earned it great honor and respect in all realms of educational endeavor.

In conclusion, I would like to point out to our "critics" additional characteristics of the citizenry of Wheeling High School. They are forgiving, understanding, and accepting. On several occasions over the last nine years, we have had to bid farewell to "old" friends and welcome "new" ones as boundaries were changed. If, in the wisdom of our board of education, it is deemed advisable to assign you to the "Wheeling family," on the spirit of the Golden Rule, you will be welcome and the talents of your son and daughter will find bountiful opportunities for growth and development at Wheeling High School — a proud institution.

Downstate Republican Heads Senate

Illinois Republican senators yesterday selected a Downstate veteran as president of the Senate in the 78th General Assembly while their colleagues in the House of Representatives continued bitter infighting over their leadership post.

Sen. William C. Harris of Pontiac, who served six years in the House before his election to the Senate in 1960, was nominated as president of the Senate in a 17-13 vote over Sen. Terrel E. Clarke of Western Springs.

Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, who will take a seat in the Senate in January, reported that the nomination of Harris was made unanimous after the first vote, assuring Harris of election when the Senate convenes with a 30-29 Republican majority.

Regner, who had supported Clarke's nomination, reported that the vote in the caucus at Springfield took place in an amicable atmosphere, and called the nomination of Harris a "commendable decision." Despite his support of Clarke,

State Rep. David J. Regner

he said, "It was a tough choice between two very well-qualified men."

Meanwhile, the battle for votes for the nomination as speaker of the House continued unabated. Supporters of the current speaker, W. Robert Blair of Evanston, yesterday were claiming 54 committed votes. Backers of Blair's challenger, Rep. Henry Hyde of Chicago, at the same time were counting 43 "sure" votes of the 45 needed for the nomination.

TOTALING THE CLAIMS of both sides produces a total of 97 votes — while there will be only 89 Republicans eligible to vote on the nomination. Rep. Robert S. Juckett of Park Ridge, a chief proponent of Hyde, attributed that to the probability that Blair backers were including all the so-far uncommitted votes in Blair's total.

In the meantime, conflicting reports about the positions and maneuverings of backers of both candidates continued to circulate.

Juckett said reports that Hyde had sought to postpone the Sunday caucus at which the Republicans will nominate their candidate were false. "The only reason you would want to postpone it isor if you didn't have the votes to win. And Hyde does not want it postponed," he declared.

Juckett also called reports that he had vowed to vote for the Democratic candidate if Hyde is not nominated "a lie."

He related a routine phone call from Democratic Leader Clyde Choate of Anna, the likely Democratic nominee for speaker.

Juckett said he jokingly asked Choate what position he would receive after casting the decisive vote for Choate's elevation to speaker. Choate replied, he said: "Out of the 89 Republicans in the House, I would expect you to be the last of them to vote for me."

BUT NEITHER Juckett nor other members of the Republican House contingent were willing to concede that one or more GOP representatives might not throw their votes to Choate if their candidate is defeated.

In the meantime, Republican legislators from the Northwest suburbs were leaning heavily to Hyde.

Of the 10 Republicans in five districts in the area, seven were reported committed to Hyde, two to Blair, and one declined to reveal his preference.

Declared for Hyde or reported supporting him were incumbents Juckett, Eugene F. Schlickman of Arlington Heights, (both of the 4th Legislative District); Richard A. Walsh of Oak Park and Edward Bluthardt of Schiller Park (5th); John Friedland of Elgin (2nd); and newly elected representatives John Porter of Evanston (1st) and Leo LaFleur of Roselle (2nd).

Rep. Robert Juckett

Newly elected members Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights and Donald L. Totten of Hoffman Estates, both in the 3rd District, were backing Blair. Only Brian Duff of Wilmette (1st) remained uncommitted.

Education Today

by Wandalyn Rice

More and more emphasis is being placed on career education in the high schools today, with schools concentrating on helping students prepare for the jobs they will someday hold.

However, while some teachers are worrying about the careers their students will pursue, others are getting some career counseling of their own in the form of a recently published book titled "New Careers for Teachers."

The book, by Bill McKee, an employment counselor who in the past has mainly helped journalists, is published by the Henry Regency Co. of Chicago.

The book consists of a listing of jobs that persons trained for teaching can qualify for without additional training and provides a pep talk for unemployed educators who have found themselves caught in the current glutted job market.

THE BOOK WILL undoubtedly provide some uplift for all the young (and some not so young) job hunters who have suddenly discovered the teaching profession is overcrowded. For most, it's fairly terrifying to realize they have to change direction and find some other job. They have no idea what they might be able to do.

The book is also pretty handy for non-teachers, because the advice it gives on how to evaluate your aptitudes and prepare for interviews is pretty universally applicable.

The job descriptions are also reasonably good, especially considering the fact that a large number of jobs are covered in a short space.

However, several of us in the newsroom questioned the salary ranges cited for newspaper reporters. Frankly, $200 to $400 a week sounds a little, shall we say, over-optimistic.

The book is not one sided. After going through the chapters on non-teaching jobs in business and government, there is a section on "Non-traditional Careers in Teaching" that asks the question "Are you sure you want to leave teaching?"

The author then examines the private areas and public schools where teachers are short, suggesting special education and teaching overseas as alternatives.

The book, all in all, seems to fill a real need, and also raises an interesting point. Just a few years ago, all sorts of books, pamphlets and career advisors were urging young people to go into teaching, where there were perpetual shortages of qualified people.

Now, the same youngsters who got that advice are grown, and getting an entirely diferent kind of advice.

The "baby boom" of the late 1940s and early 1950s is now a "teacher boom." I wonder how many school administrators 15 years ago when they were trying to fill classrooms with warm bodies, hoping some of them might also know how to teach, ever thought they'd come across a book like "New Careers."

HERE ARE A couple of sidelights on the now distant election: Wheeling High School students held a mock election just before the real polling took place and that group ought to be recommended to George Gallup. The Wheeling students voted almost exactly the same way as Cook County and Illinois, electing Nixon, Dan Walker, William Scott, Michael Howlett and Bernard Carey.

Notice, the students did not vote the way the Northwest Suburgs did — instead, they proved to be a bellwether for the whole state.

Also, a good many election judges noticed a large number of "kids" in their polling places at odd hours on election day and wondered if the high school students were skipping school to vote.

I'm not sure no one skipped school, but I have found a couple of explanations for the large numbers of kids at 10 a.m. or 2 p.m. Some of the schools were letting students leave for short periods to vote, on the assumption that they would do the same for teachers.

Also, unbeknownst to many adults, the high school students frequently operate on what can only be called bizarre lunch schedules. "Early birds" may end up at lunch in the mid-morning while other students starve until fairly late.

In short, those young voters probably were on their lunch hours and not playing hooky. Of course, some may have decided voting was more educational than class that day — and I'm not sure I can argue.

THE BOOK WILL undoubtedly provide some uplift for all the young (and some not so young) job hunters who have suddenly discovered the teaching profession is overcrowded. For most, it's fairly terrifying to realize they have to change direction and find some other job. They have no idea what they might be able to do.

The book is also pretty handy for non-teachers, because the advice it gives on how to evaluate your aptitudes and prepare for interviews is pretty universally applicable.

The job descriptions are also reasonably good, especially considering the fact that a large number of jobs are covered in a short space.

However, several of us in the newsroom questioned the salary ranges cited for newspaper reporters. Frankly, $200 to $400 a week sounds a little, shall we say, over-optimistic.

The book is not one sided. After going through the chapters on non-teaching jobs in business and government, there is a section on "Non-traditional Careers in Teaching" that asks the question "Are you sure you want to leave teaching?"

The author then examines the private areas and public schools where teachers are short, suggesting special education and teaching overseas as alternatives.

The book, all in all, seems to fill a real need, and also raises an interesting point. Just a few years ago, all sorts of books, pamphlets and career advisors were urging young people to go into teaching, where there were perpetual shortages of qualified people.

Now, the same youngsters who got that advice are grown, and getting an entirely diferent kind of advice.

The "baby boom" of the late 1940s and early 1950s is now a "teacher boom." I wonder how many school administrators 15 years ago when they were trying to fill classrooms with warm bodies, hoping some of them might also know how to teach, ever thought they'd come across a book like "New Careers."

HERE ARE A couple of sidelights on the now distant election: Wheeling High School students held a mock election just before the real polling took place and that group ought to be recommended to George Gallup. The Wheeling students voted almost exactly the same way as Cook County and Illinois, electing Nixon, Dan Walker, William Scott, Michael Howlett and Bernard Carey.

Notice, the students did not vote the way the Northwest Suburgs did — instead, they proved to be a bellwether for the whole state.

Also, a good many election judges noticed a large number of "kids" in their polling places at odd hours on election day and wondered if the high school students were skipping school to vote.

I'm not sure no one skipped school, but I have found a couple of explanations for the large numbers of kids at 10 a.m. or 2 p.m. Some of the schools were letting students leave for short periods to vote, on the assumption that they would do the same for teachers.

Also, unbeknownst to many adults, the high school students frequently operate on what can only be called bizarre lunch schedules. "Early birds" may end up at lunch in the mid-morning while other students starve until fairly late.

In short, those young voters probably were on their lunch hours and not playing hooky. Of course, some may have decided voting was more educational than class that day — and I'm not sure I can argue.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Trying to solve the school dropout problem on a mass basis presents enormous difficulties but person-to-person it's not so hard, according to ITT Educational Services, Inc., of Indiana.

ITT operates two schools for dropouts in Philadelphia and Detroit. The students get a daily stipend of $13 to $15 from the federal Department of Labor through a Neighborhood Youth Corps. ITT is only one of a number of companies operating similar schools around the country. All are oriented to the person-to-person approach.

Take Linda Geenidge, a black girl in West Philadelphia. At 14, Linda no longer could stand the idea of continuing school. "I hated every minute of it," she said, "but the moment I dropped out I felt like a defeated person."

LINDA HEARD from a friend about the ITT school and enrolled. Today, at 18, she is employed as a secretary-receptionist. She is taking correspondence courses and intends to finish high school and become a legal secretary.

These remedial schools for dropouts give intensive courses in reading, spelling, mathematics and such vocational subjects as typing, keypunch operating, and speedwriting, plus lecture courses in grooming, hygiene, sociology and office behavior.

Most of the students are girls. Many are black or Latin. Martha Buccino, a petite Bolivian-born brunette who administers the ITT program in Philadelphia, said almost all her current crop of 62 students have jobs waiting for them when they finish in February. Many already are working part time since they can have all their classes in the mornings or all in the afternoons.

The ITT school in Detroit is sponsored by the Mayor's Committee on Human Resources and the Neighborhood Youth Corps selected its 100 students.

ANOTHER GRADUATE of the Philadelphia school, Caroll Menginie, said she became a dropout because she had to support her sick mother and jobless father.

"But as soon as I heard about the ITT school I enrolled," she said. "I worked mornings and went to school in the afternoons."

Now she is an X-ray technician trainee in a large Philadelphia hospital. "The ITT school inspired me with the incentive to try to do better in life," she says. "The teachers even showed me how to reduce my weight by 20 pounds during the six-month course by better diet."

ITT Educational Services, which has headquarters at Indianapolis (the company is a subsidiary of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.), branched out into the special dropout school business from the professional trade school field. It operates 29 resident and correspondence trade, technical and business schools with a total enrollment of 30,000.

Hallicrafters Gets $5.1 Million Contract

The Hallicrafters Co. in Rolling Meadows, a wholly owned subsidiary of Northrop Corp., received a $5.1 million contract to provide infrared countermeasure pods for U.S. Air Force tactical aircraft.

The firm fixed price contract, let by the Air Force's Aeronautical Systems Division, Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio, also calls for Hallicrafters to provide overseas maintenance support, initial spare parts, aerospace ground equipment, provisioning spares, and provisioned depot support services and data.

Com Ed Building

An average of more than $2 million every day over the next five years will be spent by Commonwealth Edison Company to build new generating stations, transmission and distribution lines and general facilities needed to keep pace with customers' electrical demands. The new construction program of the electric company calls for an estimated expenditure of $4 billion for the five-year period 1973 through 1977. About $325 million of the total is set aside for environmental control facilities.

AAR Buys Del Monte

AAR Corp., Elk Grove Village, has agreed in principle to acquire Del Monte Aviation, Inc.

Del Monte Aviation, owned and operated by Walter Stewart, is a fixed base operation serving general aviation at Monterey Peninsula Airport, Monterey, Calif. Its sales for the year ended Oct. 31, 1971, were slightly over $1 million and it has exceeded that figure in the first eight months of its current fiscal year. AAR's sales for the fiscal year ended May 31, 1972, were $25.1 million.

The proposed agreement calls for AAR to issue an undisclosed number of shares of its common stock for the Del Monte business. Del Monte's present management, including owner Walter Stewart, will continue to operate the company.

Figuring Out The Family Calculator

by CARLTON SMITH

Those little pocket-size electronic calculators that are selling like toys before Christmas may look like toys, but they're real enough as business machines.

The better ones perform any mathematical operation you can get out of a 25-pound mechanical calculator that goes clackety-chunk-chunk-clack.

Do you need one to figure taxes or balance the checkbook? Will Junior start getting A's in math if he finds a mini calculator in his Christmas stocking?

The stores report a lot of them being bought for those reasons, and others, and unless you actually need a business machine, you can own a mini for a modest price — if you know what features to look for in a calculator.

A low-cost model (one is currently advertised at $60) may be just as serviceable as a more expensive one. It's mainly the features that determine price, and many features aren't needed for home use.

"No need to pay for a machine that does logarithms when all you want is to balance your checkbook faster," says "The Business Week Letter," a McGraw-Hill publication, and gives this checklist of features.

—DECIMAL POINT. You have four choices. (1) No decimal point in the cheapest machines. (2) Fixed, usually at two places. Sufficient for shopping, household budgets, checking accounts, grammar school math. (3) Floating; the user positions it. (4) Full floating; the machine positions it automatically. "Useful for computing comparative stock yields, precision engineering calculations and so on."

—CONSTANT (K) KEY. Lets you continually divide or multiply by the same number, by locking it in with the K key.

—PERCENTAGE KEY. "Particularly valuable for tax computations." (And to the extent that you use the machine for that, it's tax deductible.)

—TACTILE FEEDBACK. An audible click when a button is pressed tells you the number has been entered. Valuable if you "touch calculate," without watching the machine.

CLEARANCE (CE) KEY. Erases errors. Standard on most medium-priced machines.

A "memory" feature is being advertised for many machines. One with a K key does have a memory, in a sense, but only in quite expensive machines will you find a true, computer-type memory feature.

Check carefully on power supply. A medium-priced machine should have rechargeable batteries and an AC adapter. Low-priced machines probably use throw-away batteries. One of the cheapest uses batteries with a 60-minute life; a machine selling for $20 more comes with a 16-hour battery.

Check warranties, too. It's one year on parts and service for most — but one low-cost machine has only a 90-day guarantee.

Should you, by the way, let Junior and Suzy do their homework on a calculator? Many educators think it's a good way to insure that they won't learn much math. Others think it may be all right to let them check their answers by machine, but agree that they shouldn't get their answers by machine.

"No need to pay for a machine that does logarithms when all you want is to balance your checkbook faster," says "The Business Week Letter," a McGraw-Hill publication, and gives this checklist of features.

—DECIMAL POINT. You have four choices. (1) No decimal point in the cheapest machines. (2) Fixed, usually at two places. Sufficient for shopping, household budgets, checking accounts, grammar school math. (3) Floating; the user positions it. (4) Full floating; the machine positions it automatically. "Useful for computing comparative stock yields, precision engineering calculations and so on."

—CONSTANT (K) KEY. Lets you continually divide or multiply by the same number, by locking it in with the K key.

—PERCENTAGE KEY. "Particularly valuable for tax computations." (And to the extent that you use the machine for that, it's tax deductible.)

—TACTILE FEEDBACK. An audible click when a button is pressed tells you the number has been entered. Valuable if you "touch calculate," without watching the machine.

CLEARANCE (CE) KEY. Erases errors. Standard on most medium-priced machines.

A "memory" feature is being advertised for many machines. One with a K key does have a memory, in a sense, but only in quite expensive machines will you find a true, computer-type memory feature.

Check carefully on power supply. A medium-priced machine should have rechargeable batteries and an AC adapter. Low-priced machines probably use throw-away batteries. One of the cheapest uses batteries with a 60-minute life; a machine selling for $20 more comes with a 16-hour battery.

Check warranties, too. It's one year on parts and service for most — but one low-cost machine has only a 90-day guarantee.

Should you, by the way, let Junior and Suzy do their homework on a calculator? Many educators think it's a good way to insure that they won't learn much math. Others think it may be all right to let them check their answers by machine, but agree that they shouldn't get their answers by machine.

Lecithin Shows No Value As A Cholesterol Fighter

by LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — After reading several articles and paperbacks on the subject of lecithin, I purchased a large bottle and after finishing it purchased another one. Later I read that gallstones are composed in part of lecithin, I looked the word up in the dictionary and found the description "the yolk of an egg, a nitrogenuous fatty substance found in nerve tissue, blood, milk, egg yolk, and some vegetables."

My sister and I have been watching our cholesterol and avoiding foods that would raise the count. Ours are both high. I looked up the definition of the word cholesterol and it sounds much like lecithin. Our problem is whether we should continue taking these or not.

Dear Reader — Unfortunately, the experiments done by reputable scientists trying to use lecithin to lower cholesterol or prevent atherosclerosis have proved that it has no value in this regard. At the same time in limited amounts it won't cause any harm. It is not the same thing as cholesterol. It combines some of the fatty particles in the blood to help form a related fat particle which some scientists thought would prevent the fatty particles from depositing in the arteries. Unfortunately, this hasn't proved to be the case. I don't believe it will contribute to gallstones either.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have heard it mentioned that X-ray treatments might be beneficial to prevent, or decreasing the severity of attacks of arthritis or osteoarthritis.

Dear Reader — There is no evidence whatever that X-ray treatment will help arthritis or osteoarthritis. There is an inexhaustible list of things that have been recommended as cures for arthritis. It is safe to say that most of those that are recommended, particularly if they are advertised, are worthless, and in some instances downright frauds. The quack medicines foisted on the public for treatment of arthritis are astonishing. You will not find these kinds of recommendations being made by reputable physicians.

There are a number of medicines which are helpful in the treatment of arthritis but they don't offer cures. The rheumatoid or inflammatory type of arthritis sometimes subsides on its own and some medicines appear to help to control or slow the process.

Osteoarthritis is the result of wear and tear most often associated with increasing age and while pain relievers are useful for it, they won't cure the process.

Everyone who has arthritis deserves a careful medical evaluation by his family doctor and should try to follow his advice. There is no sure cure for arthritis at this writing, and none seem likely in the near future.

South's three-diamond call was a reverse bid in spite of the fact that he had bid his suits in order. The order itself does not constitute a reverse bid. It is when you shut out the lowest bid of your suit that you are reversing

With a minimum or near minimum opening, South would have just rebid two spades. His hand was strong enough to get higher.

This three-level reverse is actually a game force, since the two-over-one response has guaranteed at least 10 points.

Since this reverse was a game force, North was able to rebid to three spades only. South continued to four and North showed his desire to get to a slam cue bidding five clubs. South liked the slam idea and accepted the invitation by bidding five hearts, whereupon North went to slam.

Almost any reasonable line of play would bring the slam home but South took the best one from a percentage standpoint.

He won the club in dummy; played the queen of trumps to see if trumps would break better than 5-0.

After both opponents followed he led a diamond to his ace and a second back toward dummy. This insured the contract if diamonds broke 4-2 and kept several options open in case they divided 5-1.

Smugglers Beware! The Eyes Of Customs Are Upon You...

by DOROTHY OLIVER

A 747 super-jet glides into O'Hare Airport, depositing its passengers at the International Terminal. Weary travelers deplane, hike down the long black and white corridor, check through immigration and naturalization booths and gather up their luggage.

Before walking through the swinging black doors and officially stepping on United States soil, they must make one more stop — this time at the stations of U. S. Customs inspectors.

Now is the time for international travelers to declare what they are bringing into the country.

Now is also the time for inspectors to be on their toes and ferret out those items a passenger just might forget to declare.

"CUSTOMS INSPECTORS have more authority than any other enforcement officer in the world," said Elaine Pittman, a customs inspector for eight years. "We have the right to search, detain and penalize an offender."

Elaine joined Customs 13 years ago in the enforcement security division. Five years later she was sent to O'Hare as an inspector — one of 13 women in the United States to hold that position.

"Another woman and I were the first two women to work at O'Hare — with much resentment. They needed women to do female searching and we were recruited. In a matter of a few years, though, more women were hired," she said.

Women became and remain a common sight in the passenger inspection area. They, like the men, are trained in self-defense and are qualified to use firearms. They, too, receive standard promotions and pay and are expected to work overtime when necessary.

"IT'S TAKEN A while but we're accepted. And women do a good job in inspection," Elaine said. "In fact, sometimes I think we find more contraband than the men do. We're just basically nosey."

Customs inspectors have to try to outsmart the smuggler. "We were sent to school right away. After a while, after dealing with people in the passenger terminal, I was able to tell the difference in people. I move by instinct . . . intuition."

It is common for inspectors to find illegal goods. They are looking for contraband, undervalued or undeclared merchandise and narcotics — especially narcotics.

"Keep America Clean Of Drugs" signs are posted all over the customs area. Once the passengers leave their plane and before the cleaning crews board a spot check team combs the aircraft for narcotics. A second team devotes its time strictly to discovering ways a smuggler can bring drugs into the country.

"WE ARE VERY thorough at O'Hare. It is very hard to get something past us," Elaine said. "I've found cocaine inside wooden Tiki dolls and marijuana stuffed in footstools and golf clubs. Once I found 22 pounds of hash (hashish) in the tables a kindergarten teacher was bringing back from Morocco.

"If I find anything I ask the person to step into another area and wait for the customs agent. We don't carry firearms, but we do have handcuffs and there are always police nearby if they are needed."

Normally, passengers are given a thorough oral examination and carefully observed. Their baggage is searched and every item checked. During the questioning the inspector decides whether a secondary search is needed. Customs patrol officers in street clothes watch for bulging pockets and suspicious passengers and round up anybody who doesn't look 100 per cent on the "up and up."

THE SECONDARY SEARCH is conducted in a private room. The person is asked to remove all clothing and a doctor is called in to make an internal examination if there are any further questions.

"The majority of people take inspection pretty well," Elaine said. "They are usually tired; many have lost seven or eight hours in flying back. Some are reluctant to give you any information and are misinformed about the duty laws. But on the whole they cooperate."

More than 700,000 international travelers will pass through O'Hare this year. Duty collected from their overseas purchases is only a small part of the money brought in by Customs, however. In fact, checking out passengers is only a small part of a customs inspector's job.

While passengers are being sent on their way home in the international terminal, the larger operation — the examination of cargo — goes on about a mile south of the airport. Inspectors work both areas, rotating on a regular basis.

"PERCENTAGE-WISE customs takes in more money than any government agency. Most of that money comes from duty on cargo. We collect freight in values from $10 to millions," Elaine said.

"Cargo is more interesting for me," she continued. "You're seeing all types of commodities coming through — all styles, all types of merchandise."

Inspectors go through each and every box of freight that comes off the plane, looking for contraband and making sure the goods are properly assessed. Nothing leaves the airport until it passes inspection and duty has been collected.

While the inspectors search the shipments, another group of employes handles the paperwork in the U. S. Customs office.

"There is no duty on U. S. goods, but we do collect duty on any commercial shipment that comes into the country. Duty is charged to make the cost of foreign products comparable to American products," explained Diane Strzelinski, supervisor of the import control division.

"OUR DIVISION handles the paper work part of clearances. Every cargo plane has to file entry with us and post bond. The papers are checked by an invoice specialist and collection is made here by a cashier," she explained.

Diane has been a federal government employe for 10 years, beginning right after her high school graduation with the Department of Defense. After a year she moved on to the State Department and three years later started as an inspector with Customs.

"I transferred into the office three years ago. An inspector is on call 24 hours a day and it wasn't unusual to be called to the airport in the middle of the night. Office staff works from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and I like the work," Diane said.

"The government is a good employer. It's a good deal. The leave is good, the pay is good and customs is especially good to women. If you can qualify and fill the requirements of a job, move up. Benefits, vacation and sick time are generous. There is a good retirement program and women get maternity leave."

"I LIKE MY JOB because I only have to account to two people and I have good people working for me. I'm independent yet I have someone to go to if I need to," she continued.

"And things are changing. O'Hare has grown so much in the five years I've been here. There is a lot of action at the airport and I'm content."

Elaine echoes Diane's sentiments. "There's never a dull day and there's never been two days alike. Some of the inspectors work as much as 65 hours a week; at times I've averaged as much as 63 hours a week of work. You do it . .. complain . . . and keep going. You'd be surprised — we lose very few people."

Elaine cares enough about her job to have returned to work within months of having her two daughters. "They kept my position open while I was on maternity leave. Staying home is fine for some women, but it's not for me. I can do more for my children and be a better mother by working."

"I believe it's the quality of time spent with kids, not quantity, that's important. And to be less than self is painful," she said.

Working for Customs is not easy, but for Diane, Elaine and other employes it is fascinating. "I wouldn't want to change," Elaine said. "I'm planning on a customs career for the rest of my life."

OVERSEEING THE FLOW of enormous amounts of paperwork keeps Diane Strzelinski busy. As supervisor of the import control division at the U. S. Customs Department at O'Hare Airport, Diane has charge of eight employes. She has come up through the ranks from clerk-typist to her present position in the 10 years she has worked for the federal government.

EVERY PIECE OF CARGO coming into the United States is checked by customs inspectors like Elaine Pittman. Elaine, one of the first 13 women in the country to work as an inspector, rotates between inspecting freight and checking out passengers and baggage arriving at O'Hare Airport's International Terminal. In her eight years as an inspector Elaine has seen attitudes change. "It took two years before a woman was even allowed in the cargo area," she said. "Now we're accepted and work right along side the men."

Thanksgiving

by KAY MARSH

If April showers bring May flowers, what do May flowers bring? Pilgrims, according to a current greeting card. However, it may surprise you to learn that the Pilgrims didn't celebrate this country's first Thanksgiving. The settlers in Virginia did — and a year before our Pilgrim forefathers even landed in Massachusetts.

The new world's first Thanksgiving celebration took place December 14, 1619, at the site of Berkley Plantation in Virginia. The proof comes from an early 17th century document that Dr. Lyon G. Tyler, retired president of William and Mary, unearthed in 1931. That document, a set of orders from the London Company, said the "Day of our ship arrivall at the place for the plantacon in the land of Virginia shall be yearly and perpetually kept holy as a day of Thanksgiving to Almighty God." Records show the Thanksgiving did, in fact, take place, and nearly two years before the first Thanksgiving observance in New England.

Virginians, anxious to receive proper credit, formed the Virginia Thanksgiving Festival Committee and began a campaign to correct the history books. According to the current issue of Southern Living magazine, the committee finally received official acknowledgment in 1962. Replying to a letter of protest from the Committee, President Kennedy's special assistant, Arthur Schlesinger Jr., wrote: "You are quite right; and I can only plead an unconquerable New Negland bias on the part of the White House staff."

THAT NEW ENGLAND bias is, of course, firmly entrenched in our American customs. Which is why most of us celebrate this week in terms of Pilgrims and Indians.

The general idea of Thanksgiving had ample precedence in the harvest festivals of the old World, which probably date back to the time when men first began to sow and reap. The Indians in the New World celebrated the ripening of the harvest with their Green Corn Dance, while the colonists in both Virginia and Massachusetts had memories of England's Harvest Home feasts. They also knew of the Feast of the Tabernacles and other harvest festivals mentioned in the Bible.

Of the 100 Pilgrims who had landed from the Mayflower, only some 50 adults (including just five of 18 wives) survived to celebrate that first Massachusetts Thanksgiving in 1621. They sent their great Indian friend, Squanto, to invite Chief Massasoit to join in their feast. Massasoit was expected to bring a few braves. As Edward Winslow wrote back to a friend in England, Massasoit came instead "with some ninetie men who for three days we entertained and feasted." Of course, the five women, helped by a few young girls and children, had to cook and prepare all the food for 150 persons. The men competed in various games, contests and exercise of arms.

THE INDIANS contributed five deer to the feast. In "We Gather Together," a book on the story of Thanksgiving, Ralph and Adelin Linton say that the menu included turkeys, wild geese and ducks, lobsters, eels, clams, oysters and fish. There were also dried fruits, probably cooked in the dough cases which were the forerunners of the famous New England pies, and probably cranberries. There were also various corn dishes and puddings and possibly popcorn balls, all Indian dishes Squanto had taught the colonists to prepare. Certainly there was wine made from the native grapes, supplemented with "strong waters" from the Pilgrims' stores.

Nearly two years later (July 30, 1623) the Pilgrims celebrated what some consider their first real Thanksgiving, since it was the first day formally set apart by the governor as a day of prayer. Thanksgiving continued as a regional holiday until Washington proclaimed the first national day of Thanksgiving Nov. 26, 1789. And it was only after a long campaign headed by Sarah Josepha Hale, editor of "Godey's Lady's Book," that Abraham Lincoln issued a National Thanksgiving Proclamation in 1863, inviting "fellow citizens . . . to set apart and observe the last Thursday of November next as a day of thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father."

Dates, menus and details may have changed considerably since that first Virginia Thanksgiving in 1619. But now as then the whole idea of giving thanks and counting our blessings is one we can well afford to celebrate most any day and in most any way. As Robert L. Stevenson once wrote: "Keep your eyes open to your mercies. The man who forgets to be thankful has fallen asleep in life." Happy Thanksgiving!

A 747 super-jet glides into O'Hare Airport, depositing its passengers at the International Terminal. Weary travelers deplane, hike down the long black and white corridor, check through immigration and naturalization booths and gather up their luggage.

Before walking through the swinging black doors and officially stepping on United States soil, they must make one more stop — this time at the stations of U. S. Customs inspectors.

Now is the time for international travelers to declare what they are bringing into the country.

Now is also the time for inspectors to be on their toes and ferret out those items a passenger just might forget to declare.

"CUSTOMS INSPECTORS have more authority than any other enforcement officer in the world," said Elaine Pittman, a customs inspector for eight years. "We have the right to search, detain and penalize an offender."

Elaine joined Customs 13 years ago in the enforcement security division. Five years later she was sent to O'Hare as an inspector — one of 13 women in the United States to hold that position.

"Another woman and I were the first two women to work at O'Hare — with much resentment. They needed women to do female searching and we were recruited. In a matter of a few years, though, more women were hired," she said.

Women became and remain a common sight in the passenger inspection area. They, like the men, are trained in self-defense and are qualified to use firearms. They, too, receive standard promotions and pay and are expected to work overtime when necessary.

"IT'S TAKEN A while but we're accepted. And women do a good job in inspection," Elaine said. "In fact, sometimes I think we find more contraband than the men do. We're just basically nosey."

Customs inspectors have to try to outsmart the smuggler. "We were sent to school right away. After a while, after dealing with people in the passenger terminal, I was able to tell the difference in people. I move by instinct . . . intuition."

It is common for inspectors to find illegal goods. They are looking for contraband, undervalued or undeclared merchandise and narcotics — especially narcotics.

"Keep America Clean Of Drugs" signs are posted all over the customs area. Once the passengers leave their plane and before the cleaning crews board a spot check team combs the aircraft for narcotics. A second team devotes its time strictly to discovering ways a smuggler can bring drugs into the country.

"WE ARE VERY thorough at O'Hare. It is very hard to get something past us," Elaine said. "I've found cocaine inside wooden Tiki dolls and marijuana stuffed in footstools and golf clubs. Once I found 22 pounds of hash (hashish) in the tables a kindergarten teacher was bringing back from Morocco.

"If I find anything I ask the person to step into another area and wait for the customs agent. We don't carry firearms, but we do have handcuffs and there are always police nearby if they are needed."

Normally, passengers are given a thorough oral examination and carefully observed. Their baggage is searched and every item checked. During the questioning the inspector decides whether a secondary search is needed. Customs patrol officers in street clothes watch for bulging pockets and suspicious passengers and round up anybody who doesn't look 100 per cent on the "up and up."

THE SECONDARY SEARCH is conducted in a private room. The person is asked to remove all clothing and a doctor is called in to make an internal examination if there are any further questions.

"The majority of people take inspection pretty well," Elaine said. "They are usually tired; many have lost seven or eight hours in flying back. Some are reluctant to give you any information and are misinformed about the duty laws. But on the whole they cooperate."

More than 700,000 international travelers will pass through O'Hare this year. Duty collected from their overseas purchases is only a small part of the money brought in by Customs, however. In fact, checking out passengers is only a small part of a customs inspector's job.

While passengers are being sent on their way home in the international terminal, the larger operation — the examination of cargo — goes on about a mile south of the airport. Inspectors work both areas, rotating on a regular basis.

"PERCENTAGE-WISE customs takes in more money than any government agency. Most of that money comes from duty on cargo. We collect freight in values from $10 to millions," Elaine said.

"Cargo is more interesting for me," she continued. "You're seeing all types of commodities coming through — all styles, all types of merchandise."

Inspectors go through each and every box of freight that comes off the plane, looking for contraband and making sure the goods are properly assessed. Nothing leaves the airport until it passes inspection and duty has been collected.

While the inspectors search the shipments, another group of employes handles the paperwork in the U. S. Customs office.

"There is no duty on U. S. goods, but we do collect duty on any commercial shipment that comes into the country. Duty is charged to make the cost of foreign products comparable to American products," explained Diane Strzelinski, supervisor of the import control division.

"OUR DIVISION handles the paper work part of clearances. Every cargo plane has to file entry with us and post bond. The papers are checked by an invoice specialist and collection is made here by a cashier," she explained.

Diane has been a federal government employe for 10 years, beginning right after her high school graduation with the Department of Defense. After a year she moved on to the State Department and three years later started as an inspector with Customs.

"I transferred into the office three years ago. An inspector is on call 24 hours a day and it wasn't unusual to be called to the airport in the middle of the night. Office staff works from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and I like the work," Diane said.

"The government is a good employer. It's a good deal. The leave is good, the pay is good and customs is especially good to women. If you can qualify and fill the requirements of a job, move up. Benefits, vacation and sick time are generous. There is a good retirement program and women get maternity leave."

"I LIKE MY JOB because I only have to account to two people and I have good people working for me. I'm independent yet I have someone to go to if I need to," she continued.

"And things are changing. O'Hare has grown so much in the five years I've been here. There is a lot of action at the airport and I'm content."

Elaine echoes Diane's sentiments. "There's never a dull day and there's never been two days alike. Some of the inspectors work as much as 65 hours a week; at times I've averaged as much as 63 hours a week of work. You do it . .. complain . . . and keep going. You'd be surprised — we lose very few people."

Elaine cares enough about her job to have returned to work within months of having her two daughters. "They kept my position open while I was on maternity leave. Staying home is fine for some women, but it's not for me. I can do more for my children and be a better mother by working."

"I believe it's the quality of time spent with kids, not quantity, that's important. And to be less than self is painful," she said.

Working for Customs is not easy, but for Diane, Elaine and other employes it is fascinating. "I wouldn't want to change," Elaine said. "I'm planning on a customs career for the rest of my life."

OVERSEEING THE FLOW of enormous amounts of paperwork keeps Diane Strzelinski busy. As supervisor of the import control division at the U. S. Customs Department at O'Hare Airport, Diane has charge of eight employes. She has come up through the ranks from clerk-typist to her present position in the 10 years she has worked for the federal government.

EVERY PIECE OF CARGO coming into the United States is checked by customs inspectors like Elaine Pittman. Elaine, one of the first 13 women in the country to work as an inspector, rotates between inspecting freight and checking out passengers and baggage arriving at O'Hare Airport's International Terminal. In her eight years as an inspector Elaine has seen attitudes change. "It took two years before a woman was even allowed in the cargo area," she said. "Now we're accepted and work right along side the men."

Thanksgiving

by KAY MARSH

If April showers bring May flowers, what do May flowers bring? Pilgrims, according to a current greeting card. However, it may surprise you to learn that the Pilgrims didn't celebrate this country's first Thanksgiving. The settlers in Virginia did — and a year before our Pilgrim forefathers even landed in Massachusetts.

The new world's first Thanksgiving celebration took place December 14, 1619, at the site of Berkley Plantation in Virginia. The proof comes from an early 17th century document that Dr. Lyon G. Tyler, retired president of William and Mary, unearthed in 1931. That document, a set of orders from the London Company, said the "Day of our ship arrivall at the place for the plantacon in the land of Virginia shall be yearly and perpetually kept holy as a day of Thanksgiving to Almighty God." Records show the Thanksgiving did, in fact, take place, and nearly two years before the first Thanksgiving observance in New England.

Virginians, anxious to receive proper credit, formed the Virginia Thanksgiving Festival Committee and began a campaign to correct the history books. According to the current issue of Southern Living magazine, the committee finally received official acknowledgment in 1962. Replying to a letter of protest from the Committee, President Kennedy's special assistant, Arthur Schlesinger Jr., wrote: "You are quite right; and I can only plead an unconquerable New Negland bias on the part of the White House staff."

THAT NEW ENGLAND bias is, of course, firmly entrenched in our American customs. Which is why most of us celebrate this week in terms of Pilgrims and Indians.

The general idea of Thanksgiving had ample precedence in the harvest festivals of the old World, which probably date back to the time when men first began to sow and reap. The Indians in the New World celebrated the ripening of the harvest with their Green Corn Dance, while the colonists in both Virginia and Massachusetts had memories of England's Harvest Home feasts. They also knew of the Feast of the Tabernacles and other harvest festivals mentioned in the Bible.

Of the 100 Pilgrims who had landed from the Mayflower, only some 50 adults (including just five of 18 wives) survived to celebrate that first Massachusetts Thanksgiving in 1621. They sent their great Indian friend, Squanto, to invite Chief Massasoit to join in their feast. Massasoit was expected to bring a few braves. As Edward Winslow wrote back to a friend in England, Massasoit came instead "with some ninetie men who for three days we entertained and feasted." Of course, the five women, helped by a few young girls and children, had to cook and prepare all the food for 150 persons. The men competed in various games, contests and exercise of arms.

THE INDIANS contributed five deer to the feast. In "We Gather Together," a book on the story of Thanksgiving, Ralph and Adelin Linton say that the menu included turkeys, wild geese and ducks, lobsters, eels, clams, oysters and fish. There were also dried fruits, probably cooked in the dough cases which were the forerunners of the famous New England pies, and probably cranberries. There were also various corn dishes and puddings and possibly popcorn balls, all Indian dishes Squanto had taught the colonists to prepare. Certainly there was wine made from the native grapes, supplemented with "strong waters" from the Pilgrims' stores.

Nearly two years later (July 30, 1623) the Pilgrims celebrated what some consider their first real Thanksgiving, since it was the first day formally set apart by the governor as a day of prayer. Thanksgiving continued as a regional holiday until Washington proclaimed the first national day of Thanksgiving Nov. 26, 1789. And it was only after a long campaign headed by Sarah Josepha Hale, editor of "Godey's Lady's Book," that Abraham Lincoln issued a National Thanksgiving Proclamation in 1863, inviting "fellow citizens . . . to set apart and observe the last Thursday of November next as a day of thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father."

Dates, menus and details may have changed considerably since that first Virginia Thanksgiving in 1619. But now as then the whole idea of giving thanks and counting our blessings is one we can well afford to celebrate most any day and in most any way. As Robert L. Stevenson once wrote: "Keep your eyes open to your mercies. The man who forgets to be thankful has fallen asleep in life." Happy Thanksgiving!

The Home Line

When you talk about experimenting with recipes and constantly searching for the "perfect" one, there's nothing to match pastry cooks with chocolate pie. It's a never-ending process. Today's offering may not be perfection, but it's as close as my palate has yet come. It was served at a dinner party by Corinne Abel, who basked in the glow of unanimous praise.

She first makes a graham cracker crust with 1½ cup crumbs and ½ cup of melted margarine and lets this chill. Then she melts 1 2-oz. package of semi-sweet chocolate pieces over hot water and lets it cool.

Next she blends 2 3-oz. packages of cream cheese (softened) with ½ cup of sugar, 1 tsp. of vanilla and ¼ tsp. of salt. Two egg yolks are then added, one at a time, and the mixture beaten well after each egg.

The melted chocolate is then stirred in and beaten smooth. One cup of cream is whipped and folded in.

Finally, the two egg whites are beaten to soft peaks, while ¼ cup of sugar is added gradually, and this beaten until stiff. This is folded into the chocolate mixture and the whole concoction goes into the crust. It is refrigerated until well chilled and removed 5 to 10 minutes before serving. I'm still drooling.

Dear Dorothy: I don't believe I've ever seen the following hint in your column: Put baking soda in the car ashtray. Not only does it put out the cigarette but it absorbs the odor.

Dear Dorothy: I heard that a dish of oil of lavender will keep away flies and, by accident, enclosed some lavender with a box of musty papers. When next I opened the box, the mustiness was gone. —Sherry G.

A Reminder To Brides

If wedding bells will soon be ringing in your family, we want to hear them, too.

The Herald reminds brides-to-be of the deadlines in effect for reporting wedding news. Full information is printed on forms available in all the Herald offices.

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions) information is due within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story only or caption.

Accompanying picture should be a black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. At the discretion of the editors and the Herald photo department, color photos may or may not be used, depending on color tones contrast and clarity. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the newspaper immediately upon receiving photographer's proof. Better yet — have the photographer make a selection and send it immediately to the Herald office. Any delay may mean missing the deadline.

If your photographer cannot comply with deadlines, write-up will be published without a photo providing information is in the Herald office before the deadline.

There is no charge for publishing this news.

Antique Doll, Toy Exhibit At Randhurst Sunday, Dec. 3

Christmas Toys of Yesteryear, an antique doll and toy exhibit, will be held Sunday, Dec. 3, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Town Hall at Randhurst Shopping Center, 999 Elmhurst Road, Mount Prospect.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Fireside Doll Workshop and the Lake Michigan Doll Study Club will benefit the 1972 Christmas Seal campaign now in progress. Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

"We are happy to present this unique collection of antique dolls representing a wide variety of design, culture and types of construction," said Mrs. Shirley Peterson, 50 Willow Trail, Wheeling, chairman of the event. "I'm sure it will be of great interest to all parents, children and doll collectors. In addition, it serves as a benefit for a most worthwhile cause since all receipts will be donated to Christmas Seals."

Also to be featured at the doll and toy fair will be fireman clown with a toy firetruck that works and a Santa Claus who will provide a special Christmas Seal treat for children.

A Reminder To Brides

If wedding bells will soon be ringing in your family, we want to hear them, too.

The Herald reminds brides-to-be of the deadlines in effect for reporting wedding news. Full information is printed on forms available in all the Herald offices.

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions) information is due within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story only or caption.

Accompanying picture should be a black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. At the discretion of the editors and the Herald photo department, color photos may or may not be used, depending on color tones contrast and clarity. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the newspaper immediately upon receiving photographer's proof. Better yet — have the photographer make a selection and send it immediately to the Herald office. Any delay may mean missing the deadline.

If your photographer cannot comply with deadlines, write-up will be published without a photo providing information is in the Herald office before the deadline.

There is no charge for publishing this news.

AFTER BEING CROWNED last year as Paddock Publications Junior Miss, Barbara Jean Gorgol of Des Plaines went on to be named Illinois Junior Miss and third runnerup in the national competition. Miss Gorgol and Carol Jernberg, Arlington Heights Junior Miss of 1971-72, will be at the pageant this Sunday to congratulate the two new winners.

Junior Miss Pageant Sunday

Jazz Band To Introduce Contestants

Musical selections by the Rolling Meadows High School Jazz Band will introduce the 1972-73 Junior Miss Pageant sponsored by Paddock Publications this Sunday.

The two junior misses crowned at the pageant will each receive a scholarship of $500 and be eligible to compete in the stage pageant next month.

The 18 finalists who are being judged on talent, physical fitness and personal appearance were chosen from 72 high school senior coeds who enetered the competition this fall.

THE HOUR program which will include interpretive dancing, humorous readings, piano solos, a clarinet solo and singing, begins at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of Rolling Meadows High School. The pageant is open to the public free of charge.

Emcees for the evening will be Pam Weir of Arlington Heights, a senior at Illinois Wesleyan University. Miss Weir was Paddock Publications and Illinois Junior Miss for 1968-69. She will share the microphone with Larry Pressl, president of the student council of Rolling Meadows High School.

In addition to the two $500 scholarships, the two runnersup will each receive $250 and additional scholarships of $100 each will be awarded to the contestant with the highest scholastic achievement and to the girl displaying the most talent.

THE 18 FINALISTS are Sara Powell, Ellie Lamberg and Debi Brodd, all of Des Plaines; Janis Pearse, Debora Ellen Ursin, Janis C. Jones, Judith L. Schock, Penny Proctor, Olivia Denise Parkinson, all of Mount Prospect.

Also, Carol Diane Fisler and Susan Gayle Johnson, both of Palatine; Tamra L. Mattix, Elaine Sue Palmer, Paula Godwin and Karen Rose, all of Arlington Heights; Janette Debra Schutz of Rolling Meadows, Patrice Wingert of Elk Grove Village and Debbie Brown of Prospect Heights.

The 12 judges for the pageant who first met the girls when they interviewed all 72 contestants last month, are Kathy Benysh, Illinois Junior Miss, 1966; Nicholas B. Christoff, youth pastor of St. Mark Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect; Bruce Dodds, auditor at 1st Arlington National Bank; Stan Herman, manager, Jeans & Jeans; and Mrs. Raymond R. Kessell, chairman of the hospital planning committee, Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke's North.

Also, Mrs. David Krause, attorney; Tom Lovell, secretary of Rotary Club of Arlington Heights; Mrs. Jack Piper, treasurer of State Junior Woman's Club and secretary-treasurer of Mount Prospect Community Action Plan; Lt. James Roel, past president of Des Plaines Optimists Club and Des Plaines Jaycees.

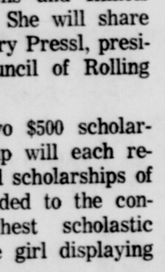
Also June Rold, dance teacher; Mike Silverman, member of the board of directors of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce; and Wilfred Wolf Jr., cashier at Northwest Trust & Savings Bank.

Christmas Season To Open At Randhurst

Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, will formally open its holiday season this Friday with the traditional arrival of Santa Claus on the mall.

The mall is being decorated now for Christmas, and again will feature different motifs on its three courtyards, including the Christmas Nativity scene on the platform in front of the Wieboldt's store; the traditional old-fashioned Christmas tree; and a display of performing, animated figures.

Fooling You



by Ed Landwehr

Many TV shows are tape recorded with live audiences because most actors perform better when there is audience reaction. But don't think that all the audience reaction you hear on TV is the actual reaction at the moment of taping.

Psychological tricks are played on you. Networks sometimes use other audience response which is dubbed in at the precise moment where it's needed. You could be having laughter, giggles, applause from some other more successful show. It's contagious when you hear good response. You think the program is good and put aside your own judgment.

But you see the performance on the TV screen, and this is original. It should be clear and have good contrast especially with color. This is when Landwehr's Home Appliances, 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, comes into the scene. Phone 255-0700 if the picture isn't right. We'll give you good viewing again, not psychological.

Complaint Unit To Visit NW Suburbs

The mobile unit of Cook County Board Pres. George W. Dunne's office of Inquiry and Information will visit two Northwest suburban shopping centers beginning next week.

The unit, now in its third season of operation, is supplied with informational materials on county governmental operations and forms in common demand. Workers from the office will provide residents with information about the county government and receive residents' opinions on county operations.

The mobile unit will visit the Southpoint Shopping Center at Camp McDonald and Wolf roads in Wheeling and the Palatine Plaza center on Northwest Highway in Palatine, from Nov. 28 through Dec. 1.

At the Southpoint Center the mobile unit will be open from 9:30 a.m. to noon Nov. 29 and Dec. 1, and from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Nov. 28 and Nov. 30.

The schedule will be reversed at Palatine Plaza, where the unit will be open from 9:30 a.m. to noon Nov. 28 and Nov. 30, and from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Nov. 29 and Dec. 1.

"I was pleased with the past operational performance of the unit," Dunne said. "With its periodical visits throughout the county it affords people the opportunity of personal contact and firsthand information."

DuBrow On TV

Tokenism For Mid-America

by RICK DuBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — In the early years of television's quarter century of programming, New York City was the dominating influence.

The chief creators were concentrated there, the audience was relatively limited and video sets were more expensive than now.

So many set owners were fairly well-to-do and, therefore, presumably somewhat sophisticated.

Thus the programming, even with the usual supply of low-grade shows like wrestling series, reflected an essentially big town New York tone.

It was localism, but high grade localism, being given the nation.

Times changed. The national audience exploded in size. Television sets got much cheaper. The coast-to-coast hookup was perfected.

Today, for instance, a prime time series like "Laugh-In" is seen the same hour on both the East and West coasts — 8 p.m.

You'd be surprised how many people still don't realize that.

AS THE AUDIENCE size exploded, it became inevitable that Hollywood would replace New York as the dominating influence in programming.

The movie capital's specialty, after all, was mass appeal.

So when Hollywood finally figured out that television wouldn't go away — as some key movie studio executives stupidly hoped and thought it would — filmtown started to take over.

Perhaps most important, the great grassroots audience had been conditioned in the past more by the values of Hollywood movies than of the entertainment forms especially indigenous to New York.

Radio, of course, had had enormous grassroots impact, but video's arrival made clear that pictures with sound would dominate just sound.

Hollywood's values, as expressed in movies, inevitably were closer to the mass Middle America audience partly because of simple geography.

In New York, there was a strong European influence. A city of vibrant minorities, it was, and is, like no place else on earth.

PERHAPS, IN FACT, too individual for a mass national video audience.

Is it strictly coincidence that, for some years, prime time film television series produced and controlled entirely in New York have mostly been mediocre ratings entries? Sad but true.

Well, then there is Hollywood's geographical situation, in Los Angeles, where the heavy population influx over the years was from places like the Midwest, the South and the Southwest.

And, inevitably, the population makeup of the town was bound to have a major impact on the outlooks of those who produced movies here.

That impact, that essential connection with the mass American audience, was an added radar wave length to the heartland. It meant millions at the boxoffice.

And it meant Hollywood television would have the same resource to draw on.

But it did not necessarily mean better programs. It did not mean Hollywood really represented the heartland. It simply meant it had more experience and knowhow in exploiting it.

IT MEANT, in short, success. But what kind? The answer was simple:

Instead of New York's version of America, we got Hollywood's.

We got another kind of localism — West Coast instead of East Coast.

In reality, the notion of truly national television has been a myth. And how much more exciting and national video could genuinely be if one of the networks were based in, say, Chicago, reflecting mid-America.

But mid-America gets the tokenism treatment by the networks. The tail wags the dog.

Holywood runs the entertainment. And New York, though displaced as the showbiz center, runs the news programs and corporate matters.

So it is not too surprising that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew hit a sensitive national nerve when he criticized certain network control centers.

The Nixon administration had its own kind of localism. Not Hollywood. Not New York. But, as the old line goes, "Will it play in Peoria?"

Many new, specialized local stations will arise from cable TV.

But Hollywood and New York still monopolize things. In 25 years or programming, U.S. network video has been chiefly a tale of two cities.

And they have spread their values from sea to shining sea.

DuBrow On TV

Tokenism For Mid-America

by RICK DuBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — In the early years of television's quarter century of programming, New York City was the dominating influence.

The chief creators were concentrated there, the audience was relatively limited and video sets were more expensive than now.

So many set owners were fairly well-to-do and, therefore, presumably somewhat sophisticated.

Thus the programming, even with the usual supply of low-grade shows like wrestling series, reflected an essentially big town New York tone.

It was localism, but high grade localism, being given the nation.

Times changed. The national audience exploded in size. Television sets got much cheaper. The coast-to-coast hookup was perfected.

Today, for instance, a prime time series like "Laugh-In" is seen the same hour on both the East and West coasts — 8 p.m.

You'd be surprised how many people still don't realize that.

AS THE AUDIENCE size exploded, it became inevitable that Hollywood would replace New York as the dominating influence in programming.

The movie capital's specialty, after all, was mass appeal.

So when Hollywood finally figured out that television wouldn't go away — as some key movie studio executives stupidly hoped and thought it would — filmtown started to take over.

Perhaps most important, the great grassroots audience had been conditioned in the past more by the values of Hollywood movies than of the entertainment forms especially indigenous to New York.

Radio, of course, had had enormous grassroots impact, but video's arrival made clear that pictures with sound would dominate just sound.

Hollywood's values, as expressed in movies, inevitably were closer to the mass Middle America audience partly because of simple geography.

In New York, there was a strong European influence. A city of vibrant minorities, it was, and is, like no place else on earth.

PERHAPS, IN FACT, too individual for a mass national video audience.

Is it strictly coincidence that, for some years, prime time film television series produced and controlled entirely in New York have mostly been mediocre ratings entries? Sad but true.

Well, then there is Hollywood's geographical situation, in Los Angeles, where the heavy population influx over the years was from places like the Midwest, the South and the Southwest.

And, inevitably, the population makeup of the town was bound to have a major impact on the outlooks of those who produced movies here.

That impact, that essential connection with the mass American audience, was an added radar wave length to the heartland. It meant millions at the boxoffice.

And it meant Hollywood television would have the same resource to draw on.

But it did not necessarily mean better programs. It did not mean Hollywood really represented the heartland. It simply meant it had more experience and knowhow in exploiting it.

IT MEANT, in short, success. But what kind? The answer was simple:

Instead of New York's version of America, we got Hollywood's.

We got another kind of localism — West Coast instead of East Coast.

In reality, the notion of truly national television has been a myth. And how much more exciting and national video could genuinely be if one of the networks were based in, say, Chicago, reflecting mid-America.

But mid-America gets the tokenism treatment by the networks. The tail wags the dog.

Holywood runs the entertainment. And New York, though displaced as the showbiz center, runs the news programs and corporate matters.

So it is not too surprising that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew hit a sensitive national nerve when he criticized certain network control centers.

The Nixon administration had its own kind of localism. Not Hollywood. Not New York. But, as the old line goes, "Will it play in Peoria?"

Many new, specialized local stations will arise from cable TV.

But Hollywood and New York still monopolize things. In 25 years or programming, U.S. network video has been chiefly a tale of two cities.

And they have spread their values from sea to shining sea.

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holiday

THE FIRST THREE days of the six-day split deer season in Illinois are over and early reports indicate that the harvest was just about the same as last year's kill of nearly 8,000.

Jo Daviess and Carrol counties will again yield the biggest counts. Last year Jo Daviess hunters killed 537 deer and Carrol gunners got 302. Other good counties this year in the northern tier of counties are Whiteside and Rock Island, Stephenson, Ogle, Lee, Bureau, Henry, LaSalle and Marshall in about that order.

Again, congratulations are in order to the Department of Conservation's game biologist Jack Calhoun for the sound management practices that have kept the Illinois herd growing ahead of and in spite of the insistent pressure of a spreading population of people.

Law enforcement too deserves a pat on the back for their extra heavy duty patrolling during the hectic three-day season that annually spills thousands of shotgunners into the Illinois woodlands.

At this early date we are aware of no hunting fatalities, which speaks well for the year old regulation requiring a hunter wear both a cap and a vest or outer garment of flourescent orange.

The old red and red/black plaid hunting caps were useful, but they were no comparison to the highly visible orange.

It was a mere 15 years ago, that there was a lot of doubt that deer hunting should be opened in Illinois. Doomsdayers predicted that one season would probably wipe out the meager state herd. Still, that first season was held and it was counted successful by the state and by the hunters, and "optimists" then hoped that one day a season would be held in Illinois in which "as many as four or five thousand deer might be harvested."

Last season hunters shot three times that many and this year should equal or top that record.

Part of the early management practices were to open hunting on small herds of deer. Tightly concentrated, these small herds reak havoc on farm crops and inbreed so closely that the herd tends to diminish instead of grow. Opening such areas to hunting spreads the herd and forces it to distribute over a much larger area, often breaking it into two separate herds that can forage more successfully than one larger herd in a small area.

The two smaller herds also creates a better balance between eligible does and bucks, so reproduction is improved. It has also become apparent over the past 15 years that the whitetail deer is a highly adaptable animal. In spite of the pressure on him, he is growing and thriving in Illinois and Wisconsin. He "keeps" very well on farm crops and manages to conceal himself very ably in even sparse cover.

Department of Conservation officials credit Illinois hunters with having a hand in the increasing Illinois deer herd. "Our hunters," said one official, "in my opinion, are for the most part, good, sound, safe hunters." This attitude, said the official, has led to farmers' continuing cooperation in allowing hunters in their fields.

The farmers likewise have a stake in the hunting success, since too many hungry deer can demolish a haystack in a few weeks.

The same 87 Illinois counties will reopen for deer hunting Dec. 8, 9 and 10, with shooting hours from 6:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

THE WISCONSIN hunting season is in full gear now with the opening lest weekend of that state's deer season. The biggest hindrance to deer hunters was the high waters that have created sloughs out of previous browse lands. So, while the deer are still able to feed and hide in the lowlands, the hunters can't get near enough to spook them into the open.

In the northern and central Wisconsin counties, hunters were wearing hip boots and often finding them inadequate. There are plenty of deer in Wisconsin, however, and hunters who persevere are nearly certain of scoring.

The wet weather has worked as an assist to hunters who like to stalk their game, because a man can walk rather briskly through the woods without too much concern for snapping twigs and crackling leaves and branches. But the same wet weather has worked against the patient "posted" hunter who likes to wait for his deer. The animals moving through the brush make almost no warning sound and the waiting hunter is lucky to get off a single shot at a fleeing whitetail.

BILL BELICH, manager of pheasant shooting at the Chain of Lakes state park, reports that hunters in this specially managed area are having a good season.

"Hunters need three things for a good hunt in this preserve," Bill told us early this week. "They need a good dog, they need hip boots, because we've got a lot of wet ground, and they need the special permit from Springfield."

Permit hunting in the Chain of Lakes park is open to all licensed hunters, but first a special permit must be secured from the Springfield office. Permits are available, free, and all you have to do is send your name and address, plus the name of the area you wish to hunt, to the Department of Conservation, State Office Building, Springfield.

The Department returns the permit to the hunter. With your permit in hand you then go to the park, pay the $5 fee and start hunting.

Belich reported that this holiday weekend the area's limit of 150 hunters will be reached early each day, but that by the first of the week hunting will be light and hunters should have no trouble getting into the area. For telephone information call JU 7-5512.

Permit hunting closes Dec. 3.

Backfield Injuries Costly

Hawks 3-3-2 In Challenging Year

by PAUL LOGAN

John Eliasik is hoping a 3-3-2 season will add up to a lot more victories for Harper College in '73.

"We made mistakes through a lot of inexperience," said the Hawks' coach. "We hope we've paid the price this year and can capitalize on this next year.

"We did attain our goal of improving the program in relation to our first year," he said, referring to the .500 record. "There were games we certainly could have won. We felt pretty empty not winning them."

The season was expected to be much more challenging than '71 with teams like highly ranked Iowa Central on the schedule. However, the added talent on this year's team had trouble because of weekly injuries, especially in the offensive backfield. Eliasik only had 35 players at the end of the season which cramped platoon play.

Mainly responsible for the success were 10 sophomores, nine of whom were returning lettermen. Elected the most valuable player of this group was Gary Prince, a defensive end.

"He was the steadiest performer on defense," praised Eliasik. "He made very few mistakes . . . he'll be hard to replace."

Like Prince, most of the sophomores were on the defensive team — truly the strength of Harper. The "Princely" led performers blanked two opponents — College of DuPage and Illinois Valley — and limited their eight foes to just 251 yards passing.

Accounting for the lack of yardage through the air were defenders like end Marty Epperly, tackle Bruce Eberle, linebacker Barry O'Donnell and halfbacks Tom Rambo and Rich and Rob Kruse.

Leading the offense was Ken Leonard, a fine little option quarterback.

"His performance this year was hampered quite a bit by an ankle injury," said Eliasik. Still, he completed 29 passes for 328 yards and three touchdown passes. He also rushed for 90 yards and three more scores.

When Leonard wasn't calling the shots, sophomore transfer Bob Jorgensen was. Besides his quarterback relief role, Jorgensen also punted.

One of their chief ball carriers was Rich Posinger, the leading rusher of 1971. He finished second this year with 337 yards. Eliasik termed him a "hard runner" who will be "hard to replace."

Providing some key blocks for Leonard, Jorgensen and Posinger, among others, was Fred Beasley. He played guard and was a co-captain.

On the plus side of the ledger, Eliasik is hoping that there will be "twice as many sophomores next year as this year." Of the 25 that could come back he listed these as being a "good nucleus of experienced players on offense" — Ken Memken, Dennis Stohl, Mayo Williams, Kevin Sullivan, Kim Planert, John Herter, Earl Nightengale and Steve Koelsch.

Memken was the leading rusher with 463 yards in 99 attempts. Stohl and Williams accounted for 129 and 95, respectively.

Sullivan was the top pass target. The steady tight end, who missed the final game because of an injury, caught 26 for 333 yards. The other four linemen "got better as the year went on," said Eliasik.

Five players who can anchor the defense next year are J. Dubiago, Steve O'Neal, Bill Nelli, Steve Perkins and Phil Steffeck.

Finally, Eliasik had special praise for assistants Len Burt, John Strell and Ward Nelson who "did a real good job."

Harper's coach is hoping that this year's excellent crop of prep athletes from the area will come out next year to make the school's third season a plus .500 one.

Meadows First To Launch Gym Slate

by JIM COOK
Gymnastics Editor

While most other area gymnastics teams will wait until the first week of December to man the equipment under interscholastic conditions, Rolling Meadows will get a head start when it opposes Glenbrook South and Oak Park tonight at South, beginning at 7:00.

Head coach Vic Avigliano's strongmen are a year older and a year more experienced than the squad that finished a remarkable sixth overall in the state's toughest prep conference — the Mid-Suburban League.

But even with the same crop returning, Meadows still boasts a wealth of youth while welcoming back nine key lettermen. The seniors and insignia winners include Bill Brandstatt on the rings, Dave Sundblom on horizontal bar, Al Sabatka on trampoline and Jim Mackin in floor exercise.

Others returning with letterman status are juniors Mike Godawa, Steve Gallis, Mark Royal, Terry Sontroy and Blaine Dahl.

"We should have some outstanding individual efforts this year," Avigliano predicted. "Godawa and Gallis are our all-around men and they're both coming around real well."

So well, in fact, that Avigliano has estimated that the Mustangs could easily open with a score near 110 — quite a forecast for a budding squad about to undertake only its second campaign ever.

"If we're consistent, we could be around 125 near mid-season," Avigliano continued. "If we have any injuries, though, we're really going to be in trouble. Our lack of depth could really be a telling factor this year."

Meadows will seek to improve its first-year record and hopefully reserve a spot in the first division of the 12-team standings. "Hersey, Elk Grove, Wheeling and Arlington are there every year, so it again."

Falcons Present Awards

Awards for Forest View varsity athletes in fall sports were recently presented at a school banquet.

A total of 31 boys in football and eight in cross country earned varsity letters. Eighteen seniors, 12 juniors and one sophomore lettered for the varsity football team which had a 6-1-1 record and finished second in the South Division of the Mid-Suburban League. The cross country team won six of 11 conference duals for sixth place.

Only sophomore letterman was Dave Matzl.

—3 Mat Teams In Debuts

At 119 pounds will be senior Mike March with some varsity experience. At 126 there is even more experience in letterman Pete Ceraulo, a senior who forged a 6-4 mark last year.

Then it's back to juniors again with Dennis Beach slated for 132, Dick Thompson for 138 and Herb Meyer for 145. Thompson could be a bonus, transferring in from Michigan with some varsity competition under his belt already.

At the heavier weights, Forest View could eventually come on the strongest. Steve Dolphin, who was 10-6 a year ago and went on to place third in the district, is going at 155 and hopefully another letterman Bob Wagner will be seeing action at 167.

Wagner is sidelined currently with a knee injury from football. In the meantime Jeff Meyer, senior brother of Herb, is getting the nod at 167.

At 185 there is vet Chuck Meade. He was 13-8 last year, captured third in the conference and fourth in the district as a heavyweight. And he could be even tougher now at a lighter weight.

Filling the heavyweight role then will be Mike Petran, like Meade a footballer, sporting an excellent jayvee record from last season.

Forest View's showing for 72-73 is questionable right now. A lot depends on how well and how fast some of Theesfeld's younger troopers come through.

FREMD

"We could have a pretty good season," shrugged Fremd's pilot Guy Henriksen. The big coach is not one to make rash projections so the Vikings could well be in the thick of the Mid-Suburban League race this winter.

Henriksen noted that his team has more balance and depth than it had a year ago. "The competition is pretty stiff at a number of weights so I imagine our situation will be changing quite a bit from week to week," he said, adding, "I hope as time goes on to firm up a pretty decent lineup."

Right now the lineup goes something like this:

At 98 pounds is Jeff Gluck, only a freshman but brother of a former conference champ is a sport where family success seems to be handed down. A couple of seniors who were with the jayvees last year, Gary Kurzeja and Mike Oster, get the bid at 105 and 112 respectively.

The coach notes that Oster is a real solid prospect who held his own in interteam scuffles with eventual state champ Jeff Alvis last winter.

Another entry with excellent potential is Mark Lynch at 126. The senior will be making his first appearance with the varsity but lost only one bout over the past two seasons with the soph and jayvee units.

Sandwiched around Lynch are a couple of returning lettermen who figure to lead the squad. Senior Dave Motta at 119 is beginning his third year of varsity combat and is coming off a nifty 17-7-2 season that took him to a third in the district.

At 132 is another Lynch, not related. He's senior John Lynch, a district champ whose 20-5 mark of a year ago contained setbacks to only the area's top foes.

Ron Vlcek, who lettered as a sophomore but did not compete last year, gets the call at 138. Going at 145 will be sophomore Danny Stark, a transfer from Pennsylvania who enjoyed an undefeated season last year as a frosh and has a load of promise.

The next two weights will both be manned by letter holders. At 155 is Steve McGuinn, who was 14-7 last year despite being slowed down by injuries. At 167 is junior Tom Bullen, who the coach rates as much improved over last winter's 4-14-1 record.

Two newcomers are battling for the 185-pound berth. And both junior Gary Peterson and senior Rick Sherman are hard workers according to Henriksen.

The heavyweight position will be handled by yet another veteran in Tom Hoey. He was 6-12 a year ago but came on strong near season's end and is still improving.

Look for the Vikings to be right in the middle of a tough race for North Division honors in the MSL.

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holiday

THE FIRST THREE days of the six-day split deer season in Illinois are over and early reports indicate that the harvest was just about the same as last year's kill of nearly 8,000.

Jo Daviess and Carrol counties will again yield the biggest counts. Last year Jo Daviess hunters killed 537 deer and Carrol gunners got 302. Other good counties this year in the northern tier of counties are Whiteside and Rock Island, Stephenson, Ogle, Lee, Bureau, Henry, LaSalle and Marshall in about that order.

Again, congratulations are in order to the Department of Conservation's game biologist Jack Calhoun for the sound management practices that have kept the Illinois herd growing ahead of and in spite of the insistent pressure of a spreading population of people.

Law enforcement too deserves a pat on the back for their extra heavy duty patrolling during the hectic three-day season that annually spills thousands of shotgunners into the Illinois woodlands.

At this early date we are aware of no hunting fatalities, which speaks well for the year old regulation requiring a hunter wear both a cap and a vest or outer garment of flourescent orange.

The old red and red/black plaid hunting caps were useful, but they were no comparison to the highly visible orange.

It was a mere 15 years ago, that there was a lot of doubt that deer hunting should be opened in Illinois. Doomsdayers predicted that one season would probably wipe out the meager state herd. Still, that first season was held and it was counted successful by the state and by the hunters, and "optimists" then hoped that one day a season would be held in Illinois in which "as many as four or five thousand deer might be harvested."

Last season hunters shot three times that many and this year should equal or top that record.

Part of the early management practices were to open hunting on small herds of deer. Tightly concentrated, these small herds reak havoc on farm crops and inbreed so closely that the herd tends to diminish instead of grow. Opening such areas to hunting spreads the herd and forces it to distribute over a much larger area, often breaking it into two separate herds that can forage more successfully than one larger herd in a small area.

The two smaller herds also creates a better balance between eligible does and bucks, so reproduction is improved. It has also become apparent over the past 15 years that the whitetail deer is a highly adaptable animal. In spite of the pressure on him, he is growing and thriving in Illinois and Wisconsin. He "keeps" very well on farm crops and manages to conceal himself very ably in even sparse cover.

Department of Conservation officials credit Illinois hunters with having a hand in the increasing Illinois deer herd. "Our hunters," said one official, "in my opinion, are for the most part, good, sound, safe hunters." This attitude, said the official, has led to farmers' continuing cooperation in allowing hunters in their fields.

The farmers likewise have a stake in the hunting success, since too many hungry deer can demolish a haystack in a few weeks.

The same 87 Illinois counties will reopen for deer hunting Dec. 8, 9 and 10, with shooting hours from 6:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

THE WISCONSIN hunting season is in full gear now with the opening lest weekend of that state's deer season. The biggest hindrance to deer hunters was the high waters that have created sloughs out of previous browse lands. So, while the deer are still able to feed and hide in the lowlands, the hunters can't get near enough to spook them into the open.

In the northern and central Wisconsin counties, hunters were wearing hip boots and often finding them inadequate. There are plenty of deer in Wisconsin, however, and hunters who persevere are nearly certain of scoring.

The wet weather has worked as an assist to hunters who like to stalk their game, because a man can walk rather briskly through the woods without too much concern for snapping twigs and crackling leaves and branches. But the same wet weather has worked against the patient "posted" hunter who likes to wait for his deer. The animals moving through the brush make almost no warning sound and the waiting hunter is lucky to get off a single shot at a fleeing whitetail.

BILL BELICH, manager of pheasant shooting at the Chain of Lakes state park, reports that hunters in this specially managed area are having a good season.

"Hunters need three things for a good hunt in this preserve," Bill told us early this week. "They need a good dog, they need hip boots, because we've got a lot of wet ground, and they need the special permit from Springfield."

Permit hunting in the Chain of Lakes park is open to all licensed hunters, but first a special permit must be secured from the Springfield office. Permits are available, free, and all you have to do is send your name and address, plus the name of the area you wish to hunt, to the Department of Conservation, State Office Building, Springfield.

The Department returns the permit to the hunter. With your permit in hand you then go to the park, pay the $5 fee and start hunting.

Belich reported that this holiday weekend the area's limit of 150 hunters will be reached early each day, but that by the first of the week hunting will be light and hunters should have no trouble getting into the area. For telephone information call JU 7-5512.

Permit hunting closes Dec. 3.

Backfield Injuries Costly

by PAUL LOGAN

John Eliasik is hoping a 3-3-2 season will add up to a lot more victories for Harper College in '73.

"We made mistakes through a lot of inexperience," said the Hawks' coach. "We hope we've paid the price this year and can capitalize on this next year.

"We did attain our goal of improving the program in relation to our first year," he said, referring to the .500 record. "There were games we certainly could have won. We felt pretty empty not winning them."

The season was expected to be much more challenging than '71 with teams like highly ranked Iowa Central on the schedule. However, the added talent on this year's team had trouble because of weekly injuries, especially in the offensive backfield. Eliasik only had 35 players at the end of the season which cramped platoon play.

Mainly responsible for the success were 10 sophomores, nine of whom were returning lettermen. Elected the most valuable player of this group was Gary Prince, a defensive end.

"He was the steadiest performer on defense," praised Eliasik. "He made very few mistakes . . . he'll be hard to replace."

Like Prince, most of the sophomores were on the defensive team — truly the strength of Harper. The "Princely" led performers blanked two opponents — College of DuPage and Illinois Valley — and limited their eight foes to just 251 yards passing.

Accounting for the lack of yardage through the air were defenders like end Marty Epperly, tackle Bruce Eberle, linebacker Barry O'Donnell and halfbacks Tom Rambo and Rich and Rob Kruse.

Leading the offense was Ken Leonard, a fine little option quarterback.

"His performance this year was hampered quite a bit by an ankle injury," said Eliasik. Still, he completed 29 passes for 328 yards and three touchdown passes. He also rushed for 90 yards and three more scores.

When Leonard wasn't calling the shots, sophomore transfer Bob Jorgensen was. Besides his quarterback relief role, Jorgensen also punted.

One of their chief ball carriers was Rich Posinger, the leading rusher of 1971. He finished second this year with 337 yards. Eliasik termed him a "hard runner" who will be "hard to replace."

Providing some key blocks for Leonard, Jorgensen and Posinger, among others, was Fred Beasley. He played guard and was a co-captain.

On the plus side of the ledger, Eliasik is hoping that there will be "twice as many sophomores next year as this year." Of the 25 that could come back he listed these as being a "good nucleus of experienced players on offense" — Ken Memken, Dennis Stohl, Mayo Williams, Kevin Sullivan, Kim Planert, John Herter, Earl Nightengale and Steve Koelsch.

Memken was the leading rusher with 463 yards in 99 attempts. Stohl and Williams accounted for 129 and 95, respectively.

Sullivan was the top pass target. The steady tight end, who missed the final game because of an injury, caught 26 for 333 yards. The other four linemen "got better as the year went on," said Eliasik.

Five players who can anchor the defense next year are J. Dubiago, Steve O'Neal, Bill Nelli, Steve Perkins and Phil Steffeck.

Finally, Eliasik had special praise for assistants Len Burt, John Strell and Ward Nelson who "did a real good job."

Harper's coach is hoping that this year's excellent crop of prep athletes from the area will come out next year to make the school's third season a plus .500 one.

Meadows First To Launch Gym Slate

Gymnastics Editor

While most other area gymnastics teams will wait until the first week of December to man the equipment under interscholastic conditions, Rolling Meadows will get a head start when it opposes Glenbrook South and Oak Park tonight at South, beginning at 7:00.

Head coach Vic Avigliano's strongmen are a year older and a year more experienced than the squad that finished a remarkable sixth overall in the state's toughest prep conference — the Mid-Suburban League.

But even with the same crop returning, Meadows still boasts a wealth of youth while welcoming back nine key lettermen. The seniors and insignia winners include Bill Brandstatt on the rings, Dave Sundblom on horizontal bar, Al Sabatka on trampoline and Jim Mackin in floor exercise.

"We should have some outstanding individual efforts this year," Avigliano predicted. "Godawa and Gallis are our all-around men and they're both coming around real well."

So well, in fact, that Avigliano has estimated that the Mustangs could easily open with a score near 110 — quite a forecast for a budding squad about to undertake only its second campaign ever.

"If we're consistent, we could be around 125 near mid-season," Avigliano continued. "If we have any injuries, though, we're really going to be in trouble. Our lack of depth could really be a telling factor this year."

Meadows will seek to improve its first-year record and hopefully reserve a spot in the first division of the 12-team standings. "Hersey, Elk Grove, Wheeling and Arlington are there every year, so it again."

Falcons Present Awards

Awards for Forest View varsity athletes in fall sports were recently presented at a school banquet.

A total of 31 boys in football and eight in cross country earned varsity letters. Eighteen seniors, 12 juniors and one sophomore lettered for the varsity football team which had a 6-1-1 record and finished second in the South Division of the Mid-Suburban League. The cross country team won six of 11 conference duals for sixth place.

Only sophomore letterman was Dave Matzl.

At 119 pounds will be senior Mike March with some varsity experience. At 126 there is even more experience in letterman Pete Ceraulo, a senior who forged a 6-4 mark last year.

Then it's back to juniors again with Dennis Beach slated for 132, Dick Thompson for 138 and Herb Meyer for 145. Thompson could be a bonus, transferring in from Michigan with some varsity competition under his belt already.

At the heavier weights, Forest View could eventually come on the strongest. Steve Dolphin, who was 10-6 a year ago and went on to place third in the district, is going at 155 and hopefully another letterman Bob Wagner will be seeing action at 167.

Wagner is sidelined currently with a knee injury from football. In the meantime Jeff Meyer, senior brother of Herb, is getting the nod at 167.

At 185 there is vet Chuck Meade. He was 13-8 last year, captured third in the conference and fourth in the district as a heavyweight. And he could be even tougher now at a lighter weight.

Filling the heavyweight role then will be Mike Petran, like Meade a footballer, sporting an excellent jayvee record from last season.

FREMD

"We could have a pretty good season," shrugged Fremd's pilot Guy Henriksen. The big coach is not one to make rash projections so the Vikings could well be in the thick of the Mid-Suburban League race this winter.

Henriksen noted that his team has more balance and depth than it had a year ago. "The competition is pretty stiff at a number of weights so I imagine our situation will be changing quite a bit from week to week," he said, adding, "I hope as time goes on to firm up a pretty decent lineup."

Right now the lineup goes something like this:

At 98 pounds is Jeff Gluck, only a freshman but brother of a former conference champ is a sport where family success seems to be handed down. A couple of seniors who were with the jayvees last year, Gary Kurzeja and Mike Oster, get the bid at 105 and 112 respectively.

The coach notes that Oster is a real solid prospect who held his own in interteam scuffles with eventual state champ Jeff Alvis last winter.

Another entry with excellent potential is Mark Lynch at 126. The senior will be making his first appearance with the varsity but lost only one bout over the past two seasons with the soph and jayvee units.

Sandwiched around Lynch are a couple of returning lettermen who figure to lead the squad. Senior Dave Motta at 119 is beginning his third year of varsity combat and is coming off a nifty 17-7-2 season that took him to a third in the district.

At 132 is another Lynch, not related. He's senior John Lynch, a district champ whose 20-5 mark of a year ago contained setbacks to only the area's top foes.

Ron Vlcek, who lettered as a sophomore but did not compete last year, gets the call at 138. Going at 145 will be sophomore Danny Stark, a transfer from Pennsylvania who enjoyed an undefeated season last year as a frosh and has a load of promise.

The next two weights will both be manned by letter holders. At 155 is Steve McGuinn, who was 14-7 last year despite being slowed down by injuries. At 167 is junior Tom Bullen, who the coach rates as much improved over last winter's 4-14-1 record.

Two newcomers are battling for the 185-pound berth. And both junior Gary Peterson and senior Rick Sherman are hard workers according to Henriksen.

The heavyweight position will be handled by yet another veteran in Tom Hoey. He was 6-12 a year ago but came on strong near season's end and is still improving.

Look for the Vikings to be right in the middle of a tough race for North Division honors in the MSL.

Thanksgiving Eve Thank-You's

THANKSGIVING DAY affords about the only opportunity to sit back relax and, as the day implies, give thanks.

Unfortunately Thanksgiving Day lasts only one day — hardly enough time to contact the people who change your life and lifestyle and who are deserving of a personal thanks.

Making telephone calls may sound like an obvious solution, but have you ever tried to pay the bill with thanks? Or maybe writing short notes would suffice, but you can't buy stamps with thanks either.

The newspaper always has space — whether it be for an ad, an editorial or whatever. So on the eve of this glorious occasion, this space will be devoted to just some of the many people who have influenced my life (and I'm sure yours) since Pilgrim Day last year.

• Thank you Weatherman. Never have I dressed for high school football games the way I did this season. Your merciless punishment of consecutive soggy weekends necessitated an increase in my wardrobe to include what is comparable to a fireman's suit. And if I see you, I'll be sure to bring my ax.

• Thank you Bobby Hull. Chicago has never learned to handle a full-fledged Super Star and it was a might surprising that you kept your skates in the Windy City as long as you did. Your absence has gone almost unnoticed. Everything's back to normal and the Stadium is still full every night. Nothing could be Wirtz.

• Thank you George Halas. The Gallant Men of Olds might be bankrupt had you not allowed "bleeping" Virgil Carter and Dick Gordon a final opportunity to make a buck before leaving town. And just when they were about to tell you whom they'd miss the most.

• Thank you Abe Gibron. My personal health has benefitted considerably now that I won't get ulcers worrying if the Bears will win the Central Division of the National Football League. Your neat attire and unemotional tactics along the sidelines symbolically mirror the images of charismatic winners Hank Stramm and Don Shula.

• Thank you Ron Santo. If my lucky number wasn't four, I wouldn't believe your promise to bring the Cubbies a pennant in 1973. I feel confident next season just as it's inevitable that Billy Williams will verbally blast sportswriters for not selecting him as the National League's MVP and that Ernie Banks will become the first black manager . . . of a restaurant called "Mr. Cub."

• Thank you Fergie Jenkins. No other player of your stature would have walked off the mound and refused to pitch again if he didn't think it would help the club. It's this self-sacrifice that has molded the Cubs into an inseparable team of harmonic non-winners.

• Thank you Jim Harrison. It seems like only yesterday that I read "A fullback was born in Chicago Sunday," comparing you favorably to the likes of Jimmy Brown. Maybe in about 22 years the fullback that was born in Chicago Sunday will be playing for the Bears.

• Thank you Duane Dow. I still fail to comprehend how you find time to personally see all of the prep football teams you rank in your weekly Top 10. Certainly you wouldn't rate them if you didn't see them, would you? I'll bet you've seen each one of them about three or four times. If there are three teams better than Elk Grove, and St. Viator doesn't belong on the chart at all, you must know more than anyone else around here.

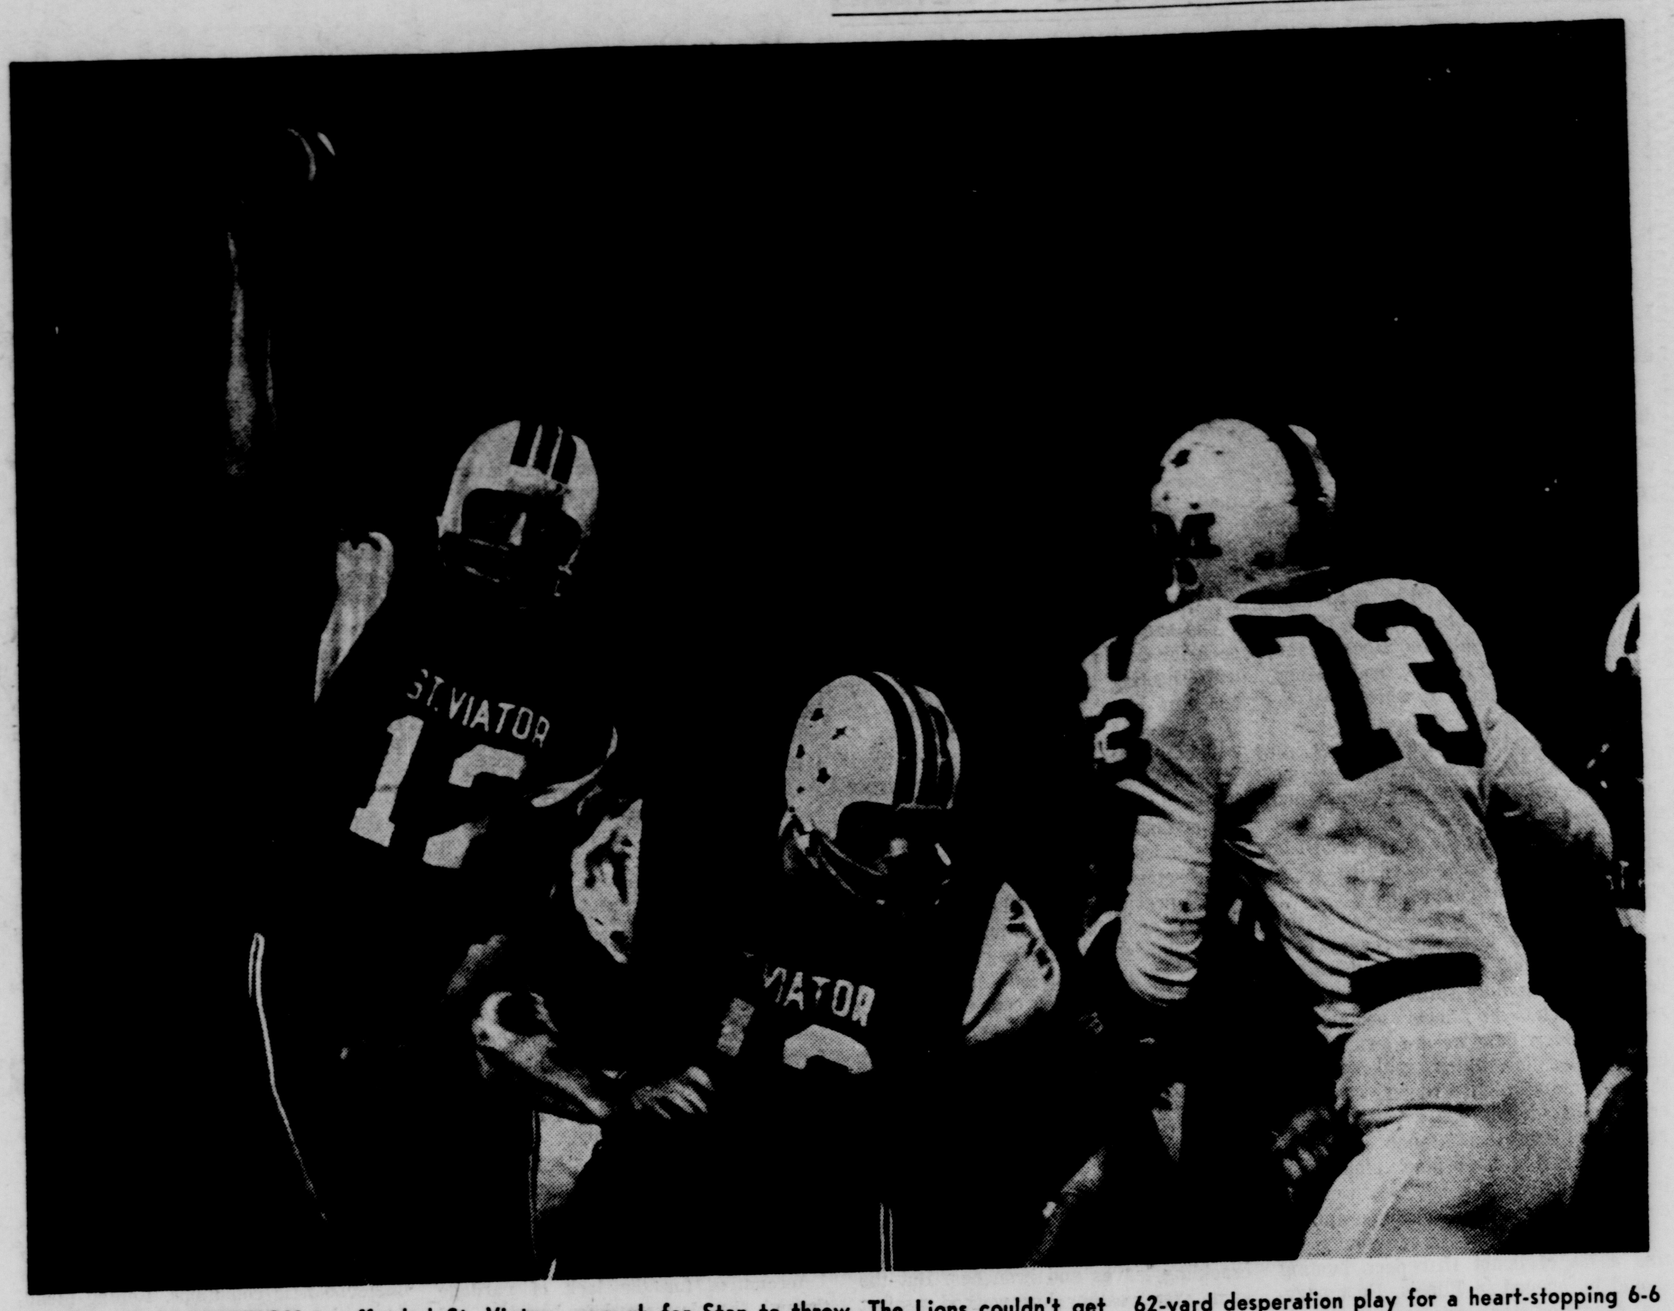
• Thank you George Pappas. I may have been $1,000 richer today if you'd been able to score better than 160 in the Brunswick Pro-Am Bowling Tournament in Glendale Heights Sunday evening. Considering fellow pros Marty Piraino (240) and Tye Critchlow (222) helped pad my 648 handicapped series, all I needed from you was a measly 190 for a 1300 combined total. That may have been good enough to win. Now if you go on to capture the $85,000 Brunswick title, I just may call for an investigation.

• Thank you Jack Brickhouse. It's reassuring to know that we can tune out the doldrums of all of the professional football scores that pour in Sunday afternoons by tuning you on for a three-hour segment of Screaming Yellow Theater. I'm happy you found a team that, at a moment's notice, will make your voice crack with emotional drama. If you ever had to cover the Bear games for a season, you'd be solemnly disappointed.

• Thank you Howard Porter. The Bulls will always be in contention for financial disaster until your contract is paid off. Even at the rate of 10 dollars a point, it seems you still owe Chicago a few hundred grand.

• Thank you Mr. Turkey. It never fails to impress me how year after year you're forced to put your reputation on the block. Tomorrow is your day and while you will again enter the hearts (and the stomachs) of people all over the nation, rest assured that the FBI is still hunting the joker who cracked "Take a turkey to lunch" 352 years ago.

Happy Thanksgiving!



PLENTY OF PROTECTION is afforded St. Viator quarterback Stan Bobowski as Tom Maher holds off Marmion defender Dave Fieza (73) long enough for Stan to throw. The Lions couldn't get their air game going at all until the last few seconds when Bobowski and Maher hooked up on a 62-yard desperation play for a heart-stopping 6-6 tie. The two teams thus share the title of the Suburban Catholic Conference.

10 Area Cage Teams Play Tonight

Thanksgiving Eve traditionally gets the ball rolling for area basketball teams and tonight will be no exception. No less than nine squads will make their 1972-73 hardcourt debuts in a busy 10-game non-conference slate.

Only Prospect, which got a head start on the rest of the field in a 60-52 loss to Evanston last weekend; Arlington which will delay until Friday night, and Schaumburg which is a Saturday night holdout, will not be premiering tonight.

Headlining the mid-week openers are Hersey at Crystal Lake, Elk Grove at Addison Trail, Forest View against Maine West at Arlington, Prospect at Maine South, Palatine at Maine East, Fremd at Notre Dame, Conant at Fenton, Maine North at Rolling Meadows, Deerfield at Wheeling and Immaculate Conception at St. Viator.

An insight on what should transpire tonight for the season-opening teams follows:

HERSEY

Hersey should boast a couple of advantages when it takes the court against host Crystal Lake tonight. Of course the biggest thing going for veteran head coach Roger Stenigraber is 6-11 junior regular Dave Corzine.

"Dave's probably the only player we have that's had any varsity experience," Steingraber said. As a sophomore last season, Corzine teamed with 6-9 Andy Pancratz in hoisting the Mid-Suburban League Championship flag on the Husky fieldhouse.

Hersey should also beneift from having seen Crystal Lake edge Glenbrook South, 49-47 Friday night. "They showed some signs of scoring punch," Steingraber noted during Crystal Lake's triumph.

"The extended football season (Hersey battled Elk Grove in the Super Bowl) gave some of our players a rather late start," Steingraber admitted. "It's taking time for some of them to get the kinks out and we've had the normal amount of muscle pulls to overcome, too."

Flanking Corzine in the pivot will be gridiron vets 6-2 Marty Friel and 6-1 Mark Conard. Both have proven their ability to handle a pigskin, but the transition to the round ball should be an interesting one.

Scheduled for backcourt service in the opener are guards 6-0 John Kanellis and 5-9 Kevin Lephart, but Steingraber didn't hesitate to add that he'd substitute freely if given the opportunity tonight.

"The kids have worked hard and are ready for a game," Steingraber concluded. "I hope we can give one to Crystal Lake."

ELK GROVE

A six-man starting lineup?

Actually Elk Grove helmsman Bill Parmentier is not ready to resort to trickery just yet as he prepares his Grenadier band for another hardwood season beginning at Addison Trail this evening. But he is thinking in terms beyond a five-man starting lineup.

"We're lacking size again this year so our best bet will be to try to outhustle our opponents. We have quickness this year so I'm just going to turn them loose. If one of starters tires I'll have someone ready to shoot right in and replace him."

For starters the coach has four lettermen from the 71-72 group which forged a 12-10 overall slate. Heading this list is 5-11 Bob Prince, in his fourth year of varsity play, a two-year letter-earner and an all-conference pick last winter who averaged 13.1 points per game.

No less than five members of the squad are members of Elk Grove's championship grid team which didn't wind up their season until the Super Bowl less than two weeks ago.

The footballers-turned-cagers include all-state candidate Jeff Stewart along with all-conference grid picks Jeff Schroeder, Rick O'Leary and Bill Butler. Schroeder, a six-foot senior, is the only member of Parmentier's probable starting lineup who is not a letterman and 6-1 Butler, 6-6 O'Leary along with another football standout Mike Sronboski, are on the reserve list right now.

Filling out the Grenadier starting lineup along with guards Prince and Schroeder and 6-3 forward Stewart are a couple more regulars from last year's basketball entry. Junior center Ken Pollitz (6-4) averaged an even 10 points a game last year and 6-3 forward Mike Millner had a 7.6 tempo over 22 contests.

FOREST VIEW

Just because coach Ted Wissen doesn't sound very optimistic at the moment, don't let that fool you.

"We've got four real tough opponents to start off with and no gym," lamented Wissen.

True enough. But you've still got to like the chances of a group that has four starters returning from a team that tied for the South Division title of the Mid-Suburban League a year ago (when the Falcons, Prospect and Conant all were 7-3).

No wonder most observers figure Forest View as a prime contender again this year. It appears to have everything needed to win consistently — size, experience and shooting ability being among the most notable virtues.

Biggest cause for the bright outlook is ace Don Woodsmall, a 6-5 senior forward. He owned by far the highest scoring average last year in the league of any of this season's returners (sixth in the MSL) and averaged 16.4 for all games. Woodsmall has a fine outside shooting touch for a player of his size and was seventh in the league in rebounding (11.4 average). He was an all-conference choice.

T. J. Skelly gives the Falcons good size in the pivot at 6-6. Other returning varsity lettermen are 6-0 guard Tom Mueller, a fine shooter and ball handler, and forward Rick Haaning.

Haaning is ill at the moment and will be unable to start in tonight's opener against Maine West at Arlington. But Wissen can choose between two very promising newcomers — Larry Monroe, last year's league-leading junior varsity scorer, or Kurt Haaland, who was the MSL's fourth-best scorer in the sophomore league.

The other starter will be another boy who stood out in the same league last year, 6-0 guard Mike Meyer.

Wissen was correct in that his bunch faces a stiff early challenge. It has no home floor since the gymnasium still is being rebuilt from last summer's tornado damage. (Most optimistic estimates are that the floor might be ready by midseason). Practices and home games must be held at other area schools in the meantime.

And the first part of the schedule is tough. After the Maine West opener tonight, the Falcons visit loaded Elgin (possibly one of the state's top teams) Friday night, then open the league slate against Hersey and Elk Grove.

State Champ Huskies Battle Maine East

Hersey, Forest View, Fremd Matmen Open

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Tom Turkey isn't the only one most area wrestlers will be grappling with over the long Thanksgiving weekend.

Three more Mid-Suburban League mat entries inaugurate their 1972-73 campaign this evening, joining with another pair of clubs which started earlier but are scheduled to return to action tonight.

The new arrivals on the scene . . . Hersey, Forest View and Fremd . . . bring to six the number of area teams engaging in combat this weekend with the rest scheduled to commence their slates early in December.

Tonight's bill finds the Huskies hosting Maine while the Falcons travel to Maine South and Fremd journeys to Lake Park for opening action. Elk Grove, in the meantime, hopes to even up from a lead-off setback to Glenbrook South by entertaining Addison Trail and Prospect will be shooting for their third in a row already when they welcome over Maine West.

Hersey will go on to cap off a busy weekend by hosting West Leyden Friday and participating in a quadrangular at Deerfield Saturday.

Here's how Hersey, Forest View and Fremd shape up for the coming year:

HERSEY

Coach Tom Porter is really on the spot now after guiding Hersey to successive state championships over each of the past two seasons.

The fiery mentor is apparently ready for the challenge, however, as he welcomes back half a dozen lettermen, including a couple of definite state-bound threats.

While he prepares his Huskies for a busy holiday weekend, the amazing thing about his lineup is the youthful appearance it has taken on. "This is actually a rebuilding year for us but I'm still very optimistic about having a highly competitive team. We've got a couple of good strong veterans in Kevin Pancratz and Kurt Weisenborn for a nucleus and I'm looking for several others to really come through for us."

Pancratz, all 230 pounds of him, is a veteran of the state finals of course, after finishing fifth last year. He's also an gets the call at 145.

That's it as far as seniors go. The rest of Porter's starting alignment for now is all underclass, indicating a great future in store for the Huskies if things fall into place this winter.

Weisenborn is beginning his third year of varsity action and coming off an excellent 18-7 slate. He'll go at 105 while another letterman, Bruce Koelling, who fashioned a 6-4 record in limited action, gets the call at 145.- That's it as far as seniors go. The rest of Porter's starting alignment for now is all underclass, indicating a great future in store for the Huskies if things fall into place this winter.

At 98 pounds there is sophomore letterman Joe Rizza, who came up late to the varsity and netted a 5-0 mark as a frosh. He's being pushed by another soph Don Sorenson.

Junior Jim Adams, a jayvee prospect, will go at 112 and Ricky Reames, also a junior, is getting the call at 119. Reames broke into the main lineup late last year but didn't letter and he's being threatened now by junior Jim Eller, a move-in from Washington state who did letter out there.

Massimo Basterna, a junior, a letter holder, and a fine prospect according to the coach, is going at 126. At 132 junior Mike Pustera beat out seniors Don Zelm and Dave Schachner for the starting berth.

Another youngster who beat out a pair of seniors is sophomore Keith Koelling at 138. His competition included Mike Dodd, who lettered last year, and Keith Hahn.

Dan Damato, also a junior, has the 155-pound post right now but he'll be hard pressed to hold it with senior Pat Hart pushing hard. Damato and Hart are both footballers along with juniors Brian Nelson and Jeff Reinhard, who will be going at 167 and 185 respectively.

Porter rates both Nelson and Reinhard with excellent potential. "They'll make mistakes early in the season but as it wears on both could develop into real winners."

A big key with the Huskies this fall is plenty of depth. At just about every weight there is someone pressing for a starting assignment and this could provide Porter with just the lift he needs for another highly successful season.

FOREST VIEW

The Forest View lineup looks similar to Hersey's, with a lot of underclassmen showing. But Falcon mentor Dave Theesfeld has different reasons for sporting such a front.

"We're really short of seniors this year," he noted. "About seven or eight of the kids who started on our soph team two years ago are over at Rolling Meadows now so we have to look elsewhere to fill up the vacancies."

Forest View, therefore, is building, whether Theesfeld wishes it or not.

Last year the Falcons posted a fine 9-2 record and went on to place eighth in the sectional. Three lettermen are returning from that outfit to shore things up and there are several other youngsters who could aid the cause as well but Theesfeld is not overly optimistic about repeating last season's finish.

The first three weights will all be manned by untried underclassmen. Sophomore John Gross will go at 98, soph Guy

At 98 pounds there is sophomore letterman Joe Rizza, who came up late to the varsity and netted a 5-0 mark as a frosh. He's being pushed by another soph Don Sorenson.

Junior Jim Adams, a jayvee prospect, will go at 112 and Ricky Reames, also a junior, is getting the call at 119. Reames broke into the main lineup late last year but didn't letter and he's being threatened now by junior Jim Eller, a move-in from Washington state who did letter out there.

Massimo Basterna, a junior, a letter holder, and a fine prospect according to the coach, is going at 126. At 132 junior Mike Pustera beat out seniors Don Zelm and Dave Schachner for the starting berth.

Another youngster who beat out a pair of seniors is sophomore Keith Koelling at 138. His competition included Mike Dodd, who lettered last year, and Keith Hahn.

Dan Damato, also a junior, has the 155-pound post right now but he'll be hard pressed to hold it with senior Pat Hart pushing hard. Damato and Hart are both footballers along with juniors Brian Nelson and Jeff Reinhard, who will be going at 167 and 185 respectively.

Porter rates both Nelson and Reinhard with excellent potential. "They'll make mistakes early in the season but as it wears on both could develop into real winners."

A big key with the Huskies this fall is plenty of depth. At just about every weight there is someone pressing for a starting assignment and this could provide Porter with just the lift he needs for another highly successful season.

FOREST VIEW

The Forest View lineup looks similar to Hersey's, with a lot of underclassmen showing. But Falcon mentor Dave Theesfeld has different reasons for sporting such a front.

"We're really short of seniors this year," he noted. "About seven or eight of the kids who started on our soph team two years ago are over at Rolling Meadows now so we have to look elsewhere to fill up the vacancies."

Forest View, therefore, is building, whether Theesfeld wishes it or not.

Last year the Falcons posted a fine 9-2 record and went on to place eighth in the sectional. Three lettermen are returning from that outfit to shore things up and there are several other youngsters who could aid the cause as well but Theesfeld is not overly optimistic about repeating last season's finish.

The first three weights will all be manned by untried underclassmen. Sophomore John Gross will go at 98, soph Guy

Meadows In Fast Start But Drops Mat Opener

The roof caved in on Rolling Meadows wrestlers Monday evening.

The Mustang charges of Coach John Ellis launched their 1972-73 campaign at Glenbard East at the beginning of the week and jumped into a quick 12-0 advantage.

The Rams really poured it on after that however. They took seven straight verdicts, three by fall, and waltzed to a 31-21 triumph over the guests in the non-conference affair.

Rolling Meadows actually looked strong at both ends of the lineup, taking the final two bouts on the card in addition to the first three. The sag in the middle more than slightly favored Glenbard however.

Jim Carlstrom, Craig Dahlquist and Roger Maddox all opened with impressive wins for the Mustangs. Carlstrom took his 98-pound contest with a pin at 3:15, Dahlquist post an 8-0 shutout at 105 and Maddox blanked his foe at 122 by a 4-0 count.

After that it was downhill for quite a while with Gary Ahr losing at 119 pounds, 8-0, Rick Cremerius absorbing a pin at 3:25 of the 126-pound fray, Dave Wallen dropping a 13-2 decision at 132, Bruce Carlson being edged 4-1 at 138, Larry Johnson getting nosed out 4-3 at 145, Tim Joyce a pin victim at 3:19 in the 155 class and Joe Dauvin also getting pinned at 167 pounds in 3:18.

Kevin Harrington halted the slump with a 6-2 victory at 185 pounds and Mike Caravello finished up on a proper Mustang note with a win by fall at 2:59 in the heavyweight clash but by then it was way too late.

Rolling Meadows freshman and sophomores were also defeated by the Rams Monday, 42-30 and 45-24 respectively.

'Very Optimistic' Says Hersey's Swimming Coach

by PAUL LOGAN

"I'm very optimistic," says Herb Parsons. That means trouble for the rest of the Mid-Suburban League.

Parsons' Hersey Huskies, boasting "pretty good depth" for a change, experiences its first test this evening against Maine North at the Maine East pool. The opener will begin at 7 p.m.

"This is the first year we can field two or three guys in every spot," says the Husky head coach. "This team has a good shot for second. As good a chance for second as Elk Grove or Prospect. I think we have a real promising team."

Leading the Huskies will be five lettermen — Bob Bosley, George Dodgen, Steve Welch, Al Zasadny and Dave Colburn.

"He should really be tough," says Parsons of Bosley, a senior who will be handling the 200 and 400 freestyle events along with the 400 relay.

Dodgen, swimming for the fourth year at Hersey, will be a breaststroker; Steve Welch, termed an "all-around man" by Parsons, can fill in anywhere; Zasadny is "one of the better divers in the conference"; and Colburn will handle the butterfly event.

Other top prospects are Kevin Taylor, individually medley and butterfly; Dave Henderson, 200 and 400 freestyle; Bob Larue, backstroke and freestyle; Craig Bruce, breaststroke and sprints; and Jeff Siler, Individual medley and backstroke.

Parsons has to have the largest coaching staff this side of Hinsdale Central. Along with regulars Joe Gliwa and Jon Hittman, Dennis Chaney, a student-teacher, is volunteering his services.

Other fine scores were Rita Irwin's 517-206, Marcia Christie's 515-190, Sharon Harrod's 476-174, Glenys Dombrowski's 474-180, Ardell Bleatman's 473-174, Marlene Jacobsen's 472, Marlene Jones' 178, Joanne Seales' 178 and Judie Dunne's 173.

Schaumburg Wrestlers Fall

The number two wrestling team in the state last year might just be gunning for the number one spot this season.

At least Schaumburg got that feeling after colliding with East Leyden on their mats last Friday.

The Eagles collected half a dozen pins, a couple of forfeits and a default and annihilated the Saxons 62-2.

"I think they have a better team than last year," Schaumburg coach Rick Gerz grimaced. "They looked in mid-season form already and appear to have a lot more overall depth."

The visitors might have made a somewhat better showing were it not for the absence of four regular starters still sidelined with injuries. As it was Guy Bedow was the only one to offer enough resistance to avert a shutout when he drew at 126 pounds, 3-3.

After Schaumburg had forfeited 98, Bedow's younger brother Grant lost a 7-2 decision at 105. Then Ned Annable was pinned at 5:29 of the 112-pound fray and Rich Kuchnia lost by fall at 4:35 in the 119-pound contest.

After Guy Bedow things went from bad to worse for the Saxons. At 132 Ray Barth was pinned at 3:48 and at 138 Larry Annable lost by default to Rod Holland, brother of last year's 145-pound state champion.

Mickey Lee was pinned at 3:31 in the 145-pound bout. Then the older Holland, Bob, who also won the Nationals this past summer, came on at 155 and disposed of Schaumburg's Todd Garder at 2:25.

Of all the Saxons, Mike Jones suffered the least. He was put down in 42 seconds at 167 pounds. Schaumburg then forfeited at 185 and Andy Jones rounded out the fourth brother act of the day by yielding to Jim Torsiello, 11-4 in the heavyweight faceoff.

Torsiello, a 230-pound all-state football nominee, had a considerable weight edge on Jones, who is hoping to get down to the 167-pound class later on this season.

In lower level action, East Leyden romped in the jayvee encounter as well, 58-6. They barely won the soph match however, 33-27 and the Saxon frosh, coached by former East Leyden star Bob Ferguson, prevented any sweep by storming to a 41-26 triumph.

Forest View Swimmers 2nd In Shamrock Meet

Forest View's new head coach thought his team could win its opener Saturday, but he knew it couldn't be done alone.

John Hillary was hoping for a little help in the third annual Shamrock Relays, hosted by St. Patrick Saturday. He didn't get it.

The defending champion Falcons finished second to the Shamrocks this time around, 126-96. Trailing them were East Leyden (80), West Leyden (78), St. Ignatius (50) and Elmwood Park (42).

"The kids were up . . . They were relatively happy," said Hillary. "I'm satisfied."

Helped by a pair of relay wins in the 400 medley and the individual medley, the Falcons were tied with St. Patrick after diving at 64 points each. Then the hosts pulled away.

Finishing with a time of 4:26.4 in the medley were Jeff Geisler, Rick Martinek, Joe Oliver and Doug Schlak. The latter's anchor time was the top performance — a 51.5. His three teammates came back to take the 300 IM with a clocking of 3:19.1.

The Falcons also posted four seconds — the 500 crescendo relay of Terry Ruff, Jim Rohn, Schlak and Kevin Redig with 5:27.1; the diving team of Craig Hippensteel and Bob Fitzpatrick with 186.45, a little more than seven points off the first-place pace; the 300 butterfly team of Oliver, Ruff and Martinek with 3:31.8; and the 800 freestyle team of Schlak, Geisler, Ruff and Redig with 8:36.8.

Only one record was smashed — the frosh-soph 200 freestyle relay. It was the Falcons' misfortune to have had a fine time in that race only to finish third. Rohn, Mike Zahakaylo, Dan Casteel and Redig covered the pool in 1:48.5, only a second off the record.

Also placing third in the meet was the frosh-soph 200 medley team of Mark Buczek, Dave Gronke, Casteel and Zahakayle with 2:14.

"We got a lot of support on the lower level," praised Hillary.

Also recording points were the frosh-soph 400 freestyle relay with fourth (4:14.6; and the 300 breaststroke relay with fifth (4:10).

—10 Area Cage Teams In Action

ers — Buddy Hughes (6-2) and John Nyholt (6-3) — carried away with torn ligaments. That makes three players in casts prior to the season opener with Maine East. Seven others have to be taped for bad ankles.

"We aren't crying about it," says Finfrock. "We've got some good kids to put in there."

Leading the starting five will be Jim Sander (6-3) and Rick McCormick (6-0). Center Sander was the fifth leading rebounder with 12.3 in a league of giants last year. Along with guard McCormick, they are expected to carry the scoring load.

Andy Knotek (5-9) will be at the other guard spot with Scott Cole (6-3) and Jim Arden (6-1) at the forward positions. Arden was the top sophomore scorer in the MSL with a 16.4 average.

"Our kids work hard," says Finfrock, now in his third year. "They're probably the most aggressive ball club we've had since I've been here. Almost all the injuries have happened when they've come down on somebody else's feet in a battle.

"We feel we'll be a real competitive ball club. We're going to give up a lot of height. Ever since I've been here we talked in terms of getting both a .500 season and respectability in the conference."

Last year the team just missed the .500 mark (9-12), a goal that has eluded Pirate teams for years. Maybe this season will be different.

FREMD

Starting from scratch.

That's about the situation Leon Kasuboske finds himself in as he takes over the reins of Fremd's basketball team for the seventh season beginning with a game at Notre Dame this evening.

Normally every cage coach has at least one letterman waiting in the wings . . . someone to assume team leadership and pull things together. There always seems to be one underclassman or so starting on every squad . . . a youngster who will return the following year to stand as an example for the others to follow.

But not Fremd for this year.

And while Kasuboske does not have a letterman to pick up the slack, he does have a Slack — John Slack to be precise — a 5-10 guard with some varsity experience at least.

Slcak is ose of three Vikes with enough background to give the team an early boost at any rate. He played in nine games while big Larry Coughlin, a 6-5 football standout, saw action in eight games last year and maintained a 3.6 average.

The other returnee is 6-2 forward Terry Whitely, also a top-notch football performer with five varsity games under his belt. Rounding out Kasuboske's starting lineup for now will probably be backcourt 6-3 junior Bob Frank and 6-3 forward Bob Youman who was the leading Vike jayvee scorere last year with an average of 10 points per game.

There are others who will likely see quite a bit of action as the season progresses including 5-10 senior Randy Cox, 6-2 junior Randy Weber and 5-10 senior Mark Pettit who could just fill the shoes vacated by his brother Doug last year.

CONANT

The Cougars' school colors are blue and white, but color this year's varsity basketball team green.

Not one member of the current unit has one second of playing experience in varsity ranks as every single one of a sterling group of performers has graduated from last year's 19-7 club that won the first sectional title ever by an area team.

But even starting from scratch, coach Dick Redlinger feels his squad will "definitely" be a contender in the South Division again. This is based on good size in the front line and some fine lower-level players from last year.

The starting five looks like this: Forward, 6-4 junior Dave Sutherland and 6-2 senior Tracy Robertson; center, 6-7 junior Steve Irion; guards, 5-10 senior Mike Atkocaitis; 5-9 senior Dick Southworth.

Tom Bowen, a 6-1 junior guard, would have been a starter but will be lost until well into the season with a broken ankle.

Reserves include bulky Roger Sander at center (6-3, 245), Tore Hansen, Jim Malesky, Jim Brown and Neal Thompson.

The Cougars open the season at Fenton tonight, then host New Trier West Friday night in the two league warmups.

Redlinger summed up, "The whole season depends on two things: senior mental leadership and junior physical strength.

"We'll have to have an offense that will set it up and work for a good shot. We're not that quick to fast break a lot but we'll take it if it's there."

ROLLING MEADOWS

"It looks like we'll have that same combination again this year," Rolling Meadows' head coach Dave Arneson chuckled. "We're small but slow."

Arneson's refreshing sense of humor may subside for a time tonight as he sends his second-year Mustangs against visiting Maine North in the 1972-73 basketball opener.

Actually Arneson will be working with the same junior varsity personnel that forged a 6-10 mark in the school's initial campaign.

"I think the fact that we have the same material returning probably puts us in a better position as far as being familiar with what we're doing out there," Arneson said. "The kids have learned the offense and defenses so it's just a matter of polishing them up a little and growing."

Arneson hesitantly tabbed 6-3 center Gary Lesley, forwards 6-0 Len Link and 6-1 Jack Lloyd and guards 6-1 Bill Geegan and 5-11 Gary Olson but quickly adding that while the Mustangs are out to win, his other primary concern is getting a look at the entire team.

"We've got a lot of football players with us — I think about six of our top eight — and it's going to take us a little time to get rid of our football legs," he said.

Maine North is also in only its second year and harbors some of the same problems challenging Meadows. "They're starving for size, too," Arneson concluded.

WHEELING

Wheeling coach Ted Ecker's ninth loss in 24 games came against Deerfield in the Wildcats' hosted regional tourney last winter. Ecker's hoping his team can give the Warriors their first defeat.

"Two players who were very much a part of that were Pat Smith (6-3) and Steve Schmitt (6-5)," said Ecker. "Had everyone done the job as they did last year, we would have beaten them."

Joining center Smith and forward Schmitt will be 6-4 junior forwards George Kaage and Bill Pickler and guard Tom Marzec (6-1). Missing, among others, will be graduated Roger Wood. Despite the loss of this giant, the 'Cats will hold the edge as the Warriors, winners of their opener (58-45 over Glenbrook North) on Saturday, do not have anyone over 6-3.

"They (Warriors) really get out and move the ball," said Ecker. "They throw it all over the place."

Besides board strength and fine outside shooting, the 'Cats also have the "best overall ball handling that we've ever had. A lot of jelling has to be done yet," added Ecker.

Wheeling, 15-9 last year, has three top reserves — John Theriault (6-0), Scott Keenan (6-0) and Tom Bentley (6-6). Two others who could see a lot of action after gaining experience on the jayvees are Bob Westrich (6-3) and Mike Brzuszkiewicz (6-3).

ST. VIATOR

Although coach Ed Wasielewski and his Lions could use more size, their prime need right now is simply game experience.

This is what St. Viator lacks the most heading into tonight's opener at home against Immaculate Conception. Last year's squad was almost entirely seniors who of course have departed.

The only returning letterman is a good one, Mike Cook, but he only last Friday wound up a football campaign which left him with tendonitis and will sideline him for a week or two.

When he does get into action, Cook will be the only Lion taller than 6-1. He played in all 24 of St. Viator's games last year with an 11.1 scoring average and was a fine rebounder. His high was against the toughest team St. Viator has ever played — 19 points against two-time state champ Thornridge.

Otherwise, the Lions are all in about the same size range — somewhat small. Their top six includes four seniors.

They include 6-0 forward-guard Dave Hutcheson, 6-0 center — forward Mike Dwyer and 5-10 guards Ed Collins and Fred Hallihan. Juniors rounding out the best six are 6-0 guard-forward Terry Keehan and 6-1 center Tony Thompson.

Another football convert will be 5-10 guard Tom Chapman after he has time to make the transition.

Obviously, the Lions will have to exhibit speed, quickness, aggressiveness, lots of desire and an avoidance of mistakes if they are to make up for their size deficiency.

But it can be done. This is the same type of squad St. Viator had last year when it posted a 14-10 record (first winning mark in several years) and was 7-7 in the conference.

Wasielewski is not yet sure what style his team will have — whether it will fastbreak or be deliberate on offense; whether it will press on defense. "We'll have to do some adjusting," he predicts. "I just want to see what we look like in a game before making any judgments."

The Lions will follow their opener by hosting Rolling Meadows Saturday night.

Just Dogs

by Dave Terrill

Cold Weather Care

Common-sense practices during the winter months relative to the care of your dog will go a long way towards eliminating health problems. Both indoor and outdoor dogs need some extra attention when the seasons change.

If you keep your dog in an outside run, check that dog house to make sure it is waterproof and draft free. The entrance should be covered with a piece of canvas or a wood baffle installed to break the wind. Also make sure that the house is up off the ground to prevent dampsness from seeping into the floor boards. If possible, the entrance should face south or southeast.

In very cold weather be sure to check the dog's water supply every morning and evening to make sure it hasn't frozen over.

Indoor dogs should never be left outdoors for long periods of time during the winter. Also, try to keep them from picking a regular sleeping spot in front of a warm air register. Some breeds, especially those with short coats, can get a real chill when they have to go outside after spending hours in front of a register.

When it comes to bathing your dog in the winter, don't unlss you have to. Regular brushing and grooming will keep most dogs socially acceptable and will help remove the dead hair and stimulate skin oils. If you have to bathe your dog, keep in mind that it takes as long as two days for a long-coated dog with a thick undercoat to dry. It is better to take him to your veterinarian or a professional groomer for a winter bath. They have heavy duty driers that can do the job.

Rand Park Obedience Trail

Rand Park Training Club, Inc. will hold its 23rd annual all breed, AKC licensed obedience trial at the Rand Park Field House, 2025 Miner St., Des Plaines, on Sunday, Dec. 3.

Entries are limited, with classes for Novice, Open and Utility to be judged. In addition to the regular class trophies, a special trophy will be presented to each dog and handler that makes a qualifying score.

Trial hours are from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., with the judging to start at 8:30 a.m. General admission for adults will be $1.00 and 50 cents for children under 12.

For more information, you may contact the trial secretary, Mrs. Jean Eremo at 453-1892.

New Breeds Registered

Regular classification for the Akita in the Working Group and for the Bichon Frise in the Non-Sporting Group will be come effective at all American Kennel Club events held on and after April 4, 1973.

Of the two breeds, the Akita is perhaps the better known and has been seen at shows in increasing numbers. Developed in Japan, it has proven its worth as a guard and companion dog.

Barks & Bays

Christmas puppies brings to mind that the largest litter of puppies ever recorded was 23, whelped on Feb. 11, 1945, by "Lena," a Fox-hound owned by W. N. Ely of Ambler, Pa.

Local Golfers Finish Fifth

A foursome from Glenn Oak Country Club in Glen Ellyn accompanied by Bill Giese, former assistant pro at Glen Oak, ranked fifth overall in the Tucson Pro-Amateur Invitational Golf Tourney held recently at the Tucson (Ariz.) National Golf Course.

Particpants were Robert A. Bierk of Elmhurst, Walter Baron of Hoffman Estates, Robert Frazee of Elmhurst, and Edward J. McCrink, Glen Ellyn resident who recently moved to San Diego. Giese is now head pro at South Hills Country Club, Fondulac, Wis. Bierk is head of Bierk Cadillac, Ltd., Schaumburg.

Veteran Coach

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bobby Dodd served 22 years as head football coach at Georgia Tech. Thirteen of his teams played in bowl games and nine were winners.

Actually Arneson will be working with the same junior varsity personnel that forged a 6-10 mark in the school's initial campaign.

"I think the fact that we have the same material returning probably puts us in a better position as far as being familiar with what we're doing out there," Arneson said. "The kids have learned the offense and defenses so it's just a matter of polishing them up a little and growing."

Arneson hesitantly tabbed 6-3 center Gary Lesley, forwards 6-0 Len Link and 6-1 Jack Lloyd and guards 6-1 Bill Geegan and 5-11 Gary Olson but quickly adding that while the Mustangs are out to win, his other primary concern is getting a look at the entire team.

"We've got a lot of football players with us — I think about six of our top eight — and it's going to take us a little time to get rid of our football legs," he said.

Maine North is also in only its second year and harbors some of the same problems challenging Meadows. "They're starving for size, too," Arneson concluded.

WHEELING

Wheeling coach Ted Ecker's ninth loss in 24 games came against Deerfield in the Wildcats' hosted regional tourney last winter. Ecker's hoping his team can give the Warriors their first defeat.

"Two players who were very much a part of that were Pat Smith (6-3) and Steve Schmitt (6-5)," said Ecker. "Had everyone done the job as they did last year, we would have beaten them."

Joining center Smith and forward Schmitt will be 6-4 junior forwards George Kaage and Bill Pickler and guard Tom Marzec (6-1). Missing, among others, will be graduated Roger Wood. Despite the loss of this giant, the 'Cats will hold the edge as the Warriors, winners of their opener (58-45 over Glenbrook North) on Saturday, do not have anyone over 6-3.

"They (Warriors) really get out and move the ball," said Ecker. "They throw it all over the place."

Besides board strength and fine outside shooting, the 'Cats also have the "best overall ball handling that we've ever had. A lot of jelling has to be done yet," added Ecker.

Wheeling, 15-9 last year, has three top reserves — John Theriault (6-0), Scott Keenan (6-0) and Tom Bentley (6-6). Two others who could see a lot of action after gaining experience on the jayvees are Bob Westrich (6-3) and Mike Brzuszkiewicz (6-3).

ST. VIATOR

Although coach Ed Wasielewski and his Lions could use more size, their prime need right now is simply game experience.

This is what St. Viator lacks the most heading into tonight's opener at home against Immaculate Conception. Last year's squad was almost entirely seniors who of course have departed.

The only returning letterman is a good one, Mike Cook, but he only last Friday wound up a football campaign which left him with tendonitis and will sideline him for a week or two.

When he does get into action, Cook will be the only Lion taller than 6-1. He played in all 24 of St. Viator's games last year with an 11.1 scoring average and was a fine rebounder. His high was against the toughest team St. Viator has ever played — 19 points against two-time state champ Thornridge.

Otherwise, the Lions are all in about the same size range — somewhat small. Their top six includes four seniors.

They include 6-0 forward-guard Dave Hutcheson, 6-0 center — forward Mike Dwyer and 5-10 guards Ed Collins and Fred Hallihan. Juniors rounding out the best six are 6-0 guard-forward Terry Keehan and 6-1 center Tony Thompson.

Another football convert will be 5-10 guard Tom Chapman after he has time to make the transition.

Obviously, the Lions will have to exhibit speed, quickness, aggressiveness, lots of desire and an avoidance of mistakes if they are to make up for their size deficiency.

But it can be done. This is the same type of squad St. Viator had last year when it posted a 14-10 record (first winning mark in several years) and was 7-7 in the conference.

Wasielewski is not yet sure what style his team will have — whether it will fastbreak or be deliberate on offense; whether it will press on defense. "We'll have to do some adjusting," he predicts. "I just want to see what we look like in a game before making any judgments."

The Lions will follow their opener by hosting Rolling Meadows Saturday night.

Just Dogs

by Dave Terrill

Cold Weather Care

Common-sense practices during the winter months relative to the care of your dog will go a long way towards eliminating health problems. Both indoor and outdoor dogs need some extra attention when the seasons change.

If you keep your dog in an outside run, check that dog house to make sure it is waterproof and draft free. The entrance should be covered with a piece of canvas or a wood baffle installed to break the wind. Also make sure that the house is up off the ground to prevent dampsness from seeping into the floor boards. If possible, the entrance should face south or southeast.

In very cold weather be sure to check the dog's water supply every morning and evening to make sure it hasn't frozen over.

Indoor dogs should never be left outdoors for long periods of time during the winter. Also, try to keep them from picking a regular sleeping spot in front of a warm air register. Some breeds, especially those with short coats, can get a real chill when they have to go outside after spending hours in front of a register.

When it comes to bathing your dog in the winter, don't unlss you have to. Regular brushing and grooming will keep most dogs socially acceptable and will help remove the dead hair and stimulate skin oils. If you have to bathe your dog, keep in mind that it takes as long as two days for a long-coated dog with a thick undercoat to dry. It is better to take him to your veterinarian or a professional groomer for a winter bath. They have heavy duty driers that can do the job.

Rand Park Obedience Trail

Rand Park Training Club, Inc. will hold its 23rd annual all breed, AKC licensed obedience trial at the Rand Park Field House, 2025 Miner St., Des Plaines, on Sunday, Dec. 3.

Entries are limited, with classes for Novice, Open and Utility to be judged. In addition to the regular class trophies, a special trophy will be presented to each dog and handler that makes a qualifying score.

Trial hours are from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., with the judging to start at 8:30 a.m. General admission for adults will be $1.00 and 50 cents for children under 12.

For more information, you may contact the trial secretary, Mrs. Jean Eremo at 453-1892.

New Breeds Registered

Regular classification for the Akita in the Working Group and for the Bichon Frise in the Non-Sporting Group will be come effective at all American Kennel Club events held on and after April 4, 1973.

Of the two breeds, the Akita is perhaps the better known and has been seen at shows in increasing numbers. Developed in Japan, it has proven its worth as a guard and companion dog.

Barks & Bays

Local Golfers Finish Fifth

A foursome from Glenn Oak Country Club in Glen Ellyn accompanied by Bill Giese, former assistant pro at Glen Oak, ranked fifth overall in the Tucson Pro-Amateur Invitational Golf Tourney held recently at the Tucson (Ariz.) National Golf Course.

Particpants were Robert A. Bierk of Elmhurst, Walter Baron of Hoffman Estates, Robert Frazee of Elmhurst, and Edward J. McCrink, Glen Ellyn resident who recently moved to San Diego. Giese is now head pro at South Hills Country Club, Fondulac, Wis. Bierk is head of Bierk Cadillac, Ltd., Schaumburg.

Veteran Coach

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bobby Dodd served 22 years as head football coach at Georgia Tech. Thirteen of his teams played in bowl games and nine were winners.

"I Became A Secretary . . . at Washington National through the commercial training classes the Company offers. After joining WNIC about three years ago as a general clerk, I took courses to improve my typing and to learn to use the Dictaphone. I enjoy the challenge of being a secretary, and I'm very glad WNIC gave me the opportunity to train for such an interesting profession."

Glaser Rolls 677 Series

Gaare Takes 7 In Men's

by GENE KIRKHAM

Gaare Oil Company was the only seven-point winner at Hoffman Lanes as the Paddock Classic Traveling League finished its 11th week of bowling action.

Gaare defeated Don-Lor with games of 978, 899, and 1027 for a 2904 team total. Gene Kirkham of Gaare led the scoring in this match with a 665 series including a 234 game and a 264 game which was the high game of the night. Gaare's win over Don-Lor moved them to within three points of the league leading Ace Hardware team.

Morton Pontiac rolled the highest team total of the night as they defeated Hoffman Lanes five points to two. Morton won the first game 964 to 917, Hoffman Rolled 998 to win the second game over Morton's 974 game. The last game was won by Morton with a 1043 game to give Morton a 2981 team total.

Bob Glaser led the 40-man Classic League with 233, 263, and 181 for a 677 series. Glaser, bowling for Morton Pontiac, increased his league leading average to 211. Considering traveling from house to house as the Paddock Classic does, 211 is a fantastic average for any bowler.

BILLY KIDD'S SKI CLASS:

High School Hockey Action

Palatine Rolls; Lions Win

Powerful Palatine kept its record perfect and St. Viator notched its first league win Sunday in area highlights in Metropolitan High School Hockey action at the Arlington Ice Spectrum.

The club from Palatine had to come from behind with three goals in the final period to overtake strong Rolling Meadows, 6-4, in a battle between two teams expected to be strong contenders for the Northwest Division title.

In other games, St. Viator shaded Arlington 4-2 to even its record at 1-1 and Hersey was routed by Driscoll, 10-1.

Palatine, now 9-0 for the season and 2-0 in the league, was paced by Paul Vrtis' three-goal hat trick and Bill Carney's two goals. Bill Hogan added the other score. Rolling Meadows had led 4-3 going into the last period. (Names of Meadows' goal scorers were not available this week).

St. Viator was led by a hat tricker of its own, Steve Lear, with Brawley collecting three assists and Dan Schultz getting the other goal. Mark Turcan and John Walsh were Arlington's scorers. St. Viator was clinging to a 3-2 lead until scoring into an empty net in the final minute after Arlington pulled its goalie.

Hersey had a few members missing from its regular lineup and Phil Kelly was its only scorer in the nine-goal defeat.

This Sunday's schedule at the Spectrum will pit Palatine against Hersey at 6 p.m., Arlington against Driscoll at 7:30 and Rolling Meadows against St. Viator at 9:00. There will be three earlier afternoon games involving North Division teams out of the Herald area.

Every day is Ladies Day in the HERALD. Keep up with society and club doings in "Suburban Living", daily woman's coverage especially designed for the family.

A plug for easier starting in colder weather.

Remember the mornings last winter when you turned the ignition key and nothing happened? If your neighbor wasn't around to help, you might have waited and waited for the service station truck. This year you can save time and money with an easy-to-use electric starting aid.

There are several types to choose from, and all run on regular house current. Simply plug one in at bedtime, and your car's off to a quicker start in the morning.

One combination—a tank-type preheater and trickle charger—can have the effect of a heated garage for your engine and battery. The tank-type unit fits outside your engine and heats and circulates the coolant.

The trickle charger both warms your battery and keeps it at full charge.

Another kind—a freeze-plug engine heater—replaces the freeze plug in the engine block. If you're buying a new car, your dealer may offer this as an option.

There are several other kinds of effective electric starting aids, too. Your auto service station or supply store can tell you which devices are best suited for your car.

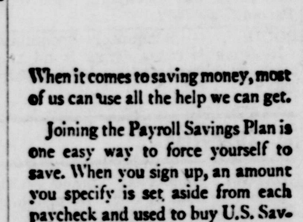
Before I joined the Payroll Savings Plan all I could save was string.



When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

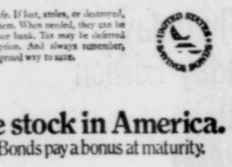
Before I joined the Payroll Savings Plan all I could save was string.



When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.

Cost Of Living Up .3 Pct.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Higher prices for clothing, used cars and health insurance pushed the cost of living up 0.3 per cent in October, the government reported.

At the same time, the purchasing power of the average wage earner took its first dip in five months.

However, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said prices declined last month for beef, some fresh fruits and vegetables and gasoline.

The Consumer Price Index for October stood at 3.4 per cent over October, 1971.

THE 0.3 PER CENT increase in the CPI last month was less than a 0.4 per cent advance in September and about average over the past year.

Over-all food prices went up only 0.1 per cent, smallest increase in that category since May when a 0.1 per cent decline was recorded.

Declines in beef and some other food prices last month were offset by sharp increases for pork, coffee, dairy products, eggs and sugar.

The rate for restaurant meals rose 0.2 per cent, smallest increase in eight months.

But the cost of services went up 0.4 per cent, the biggest advance since last January.

THE REPORT said more than one-third of the increased cost of living in October was due to a 1.1 per cent jump in the price of clothing, including a 1.6 per cent hike for women's and girls' apparel.

Used car prices went up 1.4 per cent while new car prices increased 0.5 per cent, less than normal for October.

Cerebral Palsy Leaders Named

United Cerebral Palsy of Greater Chicago has announced the names of local women who will be leaders of the "53-Minute March on Cerebral Palsy" in their areas on Sunday, Jan. 14.

The March is the agency's annual campaign for funds to support its program of direct services for children and adults crippled by cerebral palsy.

Serving as area chairmen will be: Mrs. Harold Freedman, 10 W. Brookwood Dr., Arlington Heights; Mrs. Jack Lord, 10009 N. Meadow Lane, Des Plaines; Mrs. Don Pollitz, 526 Thorndale, Elk Grove Village; Mrs. Thomas P. McCurdy, 211 Harvard Lane, Hoffman Estates; Mrs. Fred Hardman, 508 Lois St., Mount Prospect; Mrs. Philip Klein, 2400 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows; Mrs. Robert Tegtmeier, 302 W. Slade St., Palatine, and Mrs. Anton Oster, 1611 Warwick Lane, Schaumburg.

Through the effort of local chairmen and their captains and marchers . . . the agency has been able to continue, and increase its service programs, which include:

—A development center for severely physically and mentally handicapped children. Daily classes are held September through June. A new center was opened this year with enrollment increasing from 96 to 150.

—Seven six-week summer day camps, (two in Chicago, five suburban) served more than 200 youngsters. A new camp in Lake County was added this past summer.

—Four adult activity clubs provide recreation and social opportunities for handicapped adults, many of whom are otherwise homebound. Membership in the clubs is now more than 200, up from 166 last year.

—Two, two-week adult residential camps; 44 from the Chicago area participated.

—Extensive individual and family counseling.

—More than 12,000 round-trips by UCP's fleet of 21 special buses (16 last year) to transport the handicapped to camp, school and to special programs and events.

In addition to its direct services the agency carries on professional and public educational programs and supports research in both prevention and new treatment methods.

Cerebral palsy is still the number one crippler of children. There are more than 20,000 children and adults with this condition in the Greater Chicago area. Agency programs, in the main, are supported by funds raised on the march.

Personal Income Is Increasing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Commerce department report showed personal income of Americans climbed $15.2 billion in October, the largest increase since the spring of 1971.

The report said, however, that more than half of the jump was due to higher social security benefits. Personal income other than the social security increase was up $7.2 billion, compared to $6.8 billion in September, to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $962 billion.

Personal income includes wages and salaries, business earnings, income from property and securities, and social insurance and welfare benefits.

The $15.2 billion increase was the largest since the $20 billion increase of June, 1971, which also reflected a boost in Social Security payments.
